The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, MARCH 27, 1875.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

Short communications and items of news earnestly solicited from friends and patrons. Anonymous communications are not published.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH. Last Sunday being Easter the services at this church were appropriate for this festival. The floral decorations were very neat and beautiful, and were displayed with great taste. The sheaf of wheat with its binding of flowers, forming the word Christ, was a very beautiful design. The broken wreath on the memorial tablet, and the stand near the choir filled with lilies, roses, and other choice flowers, filled the air with a sweet perfume which blended in pleasing harmony with the services.

The pastor, as is usual with him, read and spoke in a clear, distinct and pleasing manner. The singing by the choir was extra, and the sweet melody of the Easter hymns so beautifully rendered, added much to the impressiveness of the services. The singing in this church is excellent, and the mingling of the fine voices with the rich music of the organ is certainly deserving of the encomium accorded it. The evening service called together a goodly number from other societies, and many were the words of praise of the excellence of the instructive and able discourse they had listened to.

JURORS DRAWN IN QUINCY. Josiah Sparrow Grand Juror for Norfolk County for the year, and John Hardwick and Charles H. Edwards, Traverse Jurors, Superior Court, Norfolk County, Criminal Session, April term.

INTERESTING LETTER. The letter from our townsman, Mr. P. McGrath, on the outside page of to-day's paper, is full of entertaining descriptions of his journey from Panama to California. His general delineation of passing scenery is very interesting, and, as we follow him along we need only a little stretch of imagination to catch a glimpse of the rock islands and mountains that he describes with such minute accuracy.

ANNIVERSARY. The Sunday School connected with the Universalist Church will celebrate its 30th anniversary, on Fast evening, April 8th, at 7 o'clock. There will be reports by the various officers of the school, and address by able speakers from out of town. Singing by the children of the school. A cordial invitation is extended to all to be present.

Mr. J. A. Littlefield, the piano tuner of Boston, wishes to inform our readers that he will be in this town on the 20th of this month. All orders left at the Patriot office for him for that time will be promptly attended to at the yearly rate.

INSTALLATION. It will be seen by notice in to-day's paper, that there is to be an installation of officers of the Sovereigns of Industry, next Tuesday evening. The Council now numbers one hundred, and new members are joining each week.

PEWS. All persons desirous of obtaining pews in the Universalist Church, for the ensuing year, are invited to be present at the auction sale on Fast Day, at 3 o'clock.

CHRIST CHURCH. The regular annual meeting of Christ Church was held in the Chapel, on Easter Monday, and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

Wardens.—Wm. L. Wainwright and Wm. Greenough.
Vestry.—Peter Butler, Chas. F. Shimmins, S. G. Wyman, G. C. Coffin, A. L. Walker, W. S. Chamberlain and John Kemp.
Treasurer and Clerk.—W. S. Chamberlain.

STILL THEY COME. March was the boss month for tramps in this town. Two hundred and forty-eight having lodged in the Station house during the month, being one hundred more than any previous month. "Tramp, tramp, tramp, the boys are marching."

WE LEARN that several petitions have been in circulation this week, and a large number of names have been subscribed, requesting the School Committee to reinstate Mr. Dewing, as principal of the Adams School.

ROGUES. An effigy was found leaning against one of the doors of the Adams Academy on Thursday evening. It was removed to the Post Office later in the evening, where it was found by Dr. French in the morning. It was afterwards burned in the street.

YESTERDAY was very warm and pleasant, so that it was not uncomfortable with the windows and doors open. A great change has taken place within a week; the snow has nearly all disappeared, and some of the main thoroughfares are beginning to get dusty. The boys are out with their foot-balls and marbles, and the girls with their hoops. The robins and blue birds are gaily singing.

GRAND ESTABLISHMENT. From a neat little pamphlet and photograph which we have received, we are able to take an inside view of the grand and most perfect Clothing Warehouse and Manufactory in Boston. This is the establishment of Messrs. Macullar, Williams & Parker, on Washington street. The plan for conducting business at this store, is perfect in every department, and the whole of this mammoth building seems filled with luxurious comforts.

SOVEREIGNS OF INDUSTRY. The Council in this town propose holding a social festival at their hall, next Tuesday evening, to which the public are invited. Dancing, and a good social time, is anticipated. For particulars, see the advertisement.

A female lawyer in Wyoming was obliged to suspend her argument before a justice in order to administer to the wants of her baby, who was bawling for its dinner in an adjoining room.

The Spelling Match.

The chapel of the Orthodox Church was crowded on Wednesday evening, to witness the spelling match between twenty-five adults, consisting of school teachers and other prominent citizens, and twenty-five pupils from High, Coddington, Adams and Willard Schools.

Mr. Edward Southworth was appointed master for the evening, and Messrs. H. A. Keith and S. C. Higgins as judges. Mr. Southworth pronounced the words loud and distinct, and when desired, gave the meaning of the word.

The following is a list of the names of the adults who took part:

Elbridge Clapp, Richard D. Chase, Miss Hattie Thayer, Miss Esther Hall, Miss Lizzie Morse, Miss Hattie Morse, Mrs. John O. Jones, Mrs. S. C. Higgins, Miss Minnie Madden, Miss E. Stanley, Mrs. Wm. W. Pratt, Miss Corn Young, Mr. Wm. D. Spelman, Mrs. Wm. D. Spelman, Miss Nellie Nightingale, Miss Annie Bump, Mr. H. Walter Gray, Miss Emily Bosworth, Miss Fannie Southworth, Mr. James C. Wakefield, Mrs. Edward Southworth, Miss Nellie Morrill, Mr. Charles W. Carter, Miss Lizzie Hardwick, Mr. George Hall.

We were unable to get a complete list of all the scholars, for that reason we do not give their names.

During the match a jaw-cracker was given out, which was mastered by Mr. Charles W. Carter, commencing with the letter z and after a tough spell he produced the Bible word not often met with, Zerubbabel.

The first word missed was by one of the adults. It was adieu,—spelled adieu. This was the only word spelled wrong the first time round. After that harder words were given out, and many missed each time round.

The second failure was by a scholar on the word deuce,—she said duce.

The next word misspelt was by a gentleman, which caused much merriment;—he said garp for gape.

Kila was the next sticker. This word one of the scholars spelled kila.

A loose adult was then caught spelling low.

A scholar was then obliged to sit down on myth,—spelling it myr.

Sitting on the stile by moon-light is quite pleasant, but spelling it was found by a scholar quite difficult;—spelling it style.

The next word missed was zinc. It was spelled zink.

The word steppe, was spelled stepp;—coot, cute.

Gnu was the next word that tripped the speller, who said nu.

Gilt was missed by a pupil,—guilt.

Out of one hundred words given out by Mr. Southworth up to this time, fifteen were missed,—fourteen were given, the other one we did not hear.

Then those that had missed were requested to take back seats, and the others had their wits put to a test by the following words:

Tassel, by an adult, spelled tasse; quarel,—quarrell; fallible,—fallible; supersede,—supercede.

The next word missed was waistcoat, and was spelt by a gentleman at the south part of the town,—waistote; which caused great merriment.

Vermilion,—vermillion; defendant,—defendant; wheedle,—wheedle; liniment,—liniment; infusible,—infusible; seminary,—seminary; habilitment,—habilitment; alpaca,—alpaca; trafficking,—trafficking; physique,—physique;—transquility;—transquility; sock,—sock; sunset,—sunset; cardamom,—cardamom.

The last word was given out quite a number of times and missed both by adults and scholars.

Lobelia was the next word missed but we did not hear the spelling.

Rarely,—rarely; brayed,—brayed; quoin,—quoin; oratory,—oratory; antiseptic,—antiseptic; tosin,—tosin; Kybe,—Kybe.

This word sent Mrs. John O. Jones to her seat. She was the last adult. All the others had missed and sat down; and when she tripped on Kybe, leaving three school scholars the floor, there was a generous applause. Miss Carter was given Cardamom which she missed; Miss Pfaffman then tried her skill on physique, but failed; leaving Miss Hannah Blake of the Willard school the prize, which consisted of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary. Miss Pfaffman, the last but one, was presented with a hand, some bouquet.

The officers of Willard Division, No. 107, at West Quincy, were publicly installed by Deputy Grand Worthy Patriarch, Rev. S. Kelley, in the Vestry of the Methodist Church on Thursday evening. He was assisted by A. Bower P. W. P. of Victoria Division, who acted as D. G. Conductor. The officers for the present quarter are:

Mayo P. Fuller, W. P. P.
Mrs. Charles A. Goucher, W. A.
George W. Shackley, R. S.
Miss Minnie Davis, A. L. S.
Charles A. Goucher, F.
Mrs. M. J. Fuller, Chaplain
Joseph E. Thomas, Jr., Con.
Harry Luce, A. C.
Benjamin Fuller, I. S.
Erskine Thomas, O. S.
William E. Thomas, P. W. P.

The occasion was made interesting, in connection with the installation services, by short speeches from Rev. Mr. Kelley, A. H. and D. E. C. Bowers, P. W. P. Thomas, J. Shackley, W. P. Fuller, and others, interspersed with music.

RASCALLY. On Friday evening of last week, some miscreants took the awning from the barber's shop of Mr. Emerson, and injured it badly. Such rogues should be caught and severely dealt with. We are sorry to say that this is not the first time that Mr. Emerson has been maliciously injured during the last few months.

BEECHER TRIAL. Thursday was the sixtieth day of the great Brooklyn trial. Henry Ward Beecher took the stand for the first time during the trial, and the public expect to learn some important facts connected with this scandal before he is dismissed.

THE DIAMONDS which were presented to General Sherman's daughter, by the Khedive of Egypt, are valued at $70,000 in gold. The duty on them was $17,500 in gold.

For the Patriot. A Reminiscence.

At the last Parish meeting of the Unitarian Society, allusion was made to an address delivered before the Norfolk County Temperance Society by the Hon. John Quincy Adams. Perhaps some of the facts connected with the delivery of that address may not be uninteresting, besides showing that as a Society, the First Church of Quincy has always treated the temperance question with contempt.

It is true, as his grandson stated, that some of the views of the distinguished gentleman were not in accordance with those of the radical temperance men. But it is also true, that he was willing to throw the weight of his great name into the scale of temperance, by addressing a total abstinence convention.

As this communication is written entirely from memory, and as the convention was held more than thirty years ago, there may be some slight inaccuracies. But the main facts are substantially correct.

In one of the early years of the Washingtonian movement, the Norfolk County Temperance Society proposed to hold a convention at Quincy. The committee of arrangements applied for the Unitarian Church for that purpose, and it was refused.

Previous to this, it had been intimated that the Hon. John Q. Adams was to address the convention. That portion of the society who opposed the temperance movement, with an accord, agreed that the idea of Mr. Adams addressing a temperance meeting was absurd. The committee immediately applied for the Unitarian Church, and its use was granted. As the time drew near for the meeting of the convention, it was found that Mr. Adams was to deliver the address; and that the doors of his own church were closed against him.

Now these gentlemen, who were so much opposed to having the house used for a temperance meeting, but who were at the same time admirers of Mr. Adams, found themselves in rather an unenviable position. However, a paper was drawn up, requesting the Society to accept the use of the Church for the Convention.

This was signed by nearly all of those who had originally opposed the use of the same for the purpose named. The staunch temperance men, who belonged to the Unitarian Society, of course declined to have anything to do with the new movement; the house having once been flatly refused them.

The morning of the day on which the convention was to be held having arrived, a preliminary business meeting was held at the town hall. Previous to this, however, the committee had called upon Mr. Adams, and informed him of the state of the case.

He in response, politely stating that he considered that the matter of providing a place of meeting was in their hands, and of course he should be ready to deliver the address at any place which they saw fit to provide.

When the convention assembled, the position of affairs was explained by some of the leading temperance men of Quincy, and reply was made by some who had signed the above-mentioned document. After hearing the whole case, the convention unanimously adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, That it would be derogatory to the character of the Norfolk County Temperance Society to accept the use of the Unitarian Church for the first annual meeting of the Unitarian Society of Quincy."

While this resolution was under discussion, the Rev. John Pierpont spoke in substance as follows:

"Mr. President,—You are aware that we have been travelling in the dust. I have no doubt that the cushions in the Church are very nice; and, if we go in there, we may soil them. I think, on the whole, we had better reject this offer, leave their cushions clean, and let their souls go dirty."

At the close of the business meeting a procession was formed and marched to the residence of the distinguished Ex-president, and from thence escorted him to the Unitarian Church, where he delivered the address.

He commenced by saying that when he received the invitation to address the Convention, the name of the Society at once attracted his attention: A society for the suppression of intemperance in the County of Norfolk. An invitation from such a Society he could not hesitate to accept.

He then stated his own views at some length, saying that from his standpoint he could not see that the necessary evils for every man to sign the pledge; if any one should find that the appetite for strong drink was getting the advantage of him, he should advise him to do so. He quoted several passages of Scripture, some of which he considered favorable to total abstinence, and some otherwise. But no one who heard the address can forget with what vigor he made the following quotations:

"Who hath we? Who hath sorrow? Who hath labbling? Who hath wounds without cause? Who hath redness of eyes? They that tarry long at the wine."

"Look not thou upon the wine when it is red! When it giveth his color in the cup! When it moveth with a right! At the last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder!"

At the close of the address, speeches were made by several members of the Society, who took exceptions to some of the remarks of the distinguished orator, but all were careful to give no cause for offence.

So the meeting passed off to the satisfaction of all concerned, with the exception of those who were instrumental in preventing the distinguished gentleman from delivering the address from the pulpit of his own church.

CONCERT. The Belknap Brass Band, of West Quincy, will give a grand promenade concert at the Town Hall, next week. For particulars see notice in another column.

THE DIAMONDS which were presented to General Sherman's daughter, by the Khedive of Egypt, are valued at $70,000 in gold. The duty on them was $17,500 in gold.

For the Patriot. Easter Services.

Special Easter services were held in the Universalist Church, in this town, last Sunday. In the afternoon the pastor preached to a large congregation, from the last clause of Phil. 3: 11, showing the purpose of the Resurrection to humanity; while in the evening there was an Easter Service by the School, assisted by the Choir.

The floral display on both occasions was excellent, and in the evening the large audience filled the house to overflowing. The allegory, essentially that composed by Rev. L. J. Fletcher of Buffalo, N. Y., brought out very prominently some of the clearest and strongest Messianic promises of the Old, no less than some of the sweetest assurances of mercy and salvation from the New Testament; while, appropriately interspersed, were hymns fraught with the very spirit of devotion. All the participants acquitted themselves creditably, and gave great satisfaction to the audience.

We think that such services, by deepening reverence and quickening holy aspirations, are productive of great good to the community, and are glad to note their increasing observance in all the churches.

OCCASIONAL.

Poetry.
Let Every One Sweep Before His Own Door.
(A PARAPHRASE.)
Do we heed the homely adage, handed down
from days of yore,
"Ere you sweep your neighbor's dwelling, clear
the rubbish from your door."
Let no filth, no rust there gather—leave no
traces of decay—
Pluck up every weed unthought, brush the fallen leaves away.
If we faithfully have labored thus to sweep
without, within,
Plucked up envy, evil-speaking, malice, each
besetting sin,
Weeks that by the sacred portals of the inner temple grow,
Poisonous weeds the heart defiling, bearing bitterness and woe;
Then, perchance, we may have leisure o'er our neighbor watch to keep,
All the work assigned us finished, we before his door may sweep.
Show him where the mosses clinging—tokens
ever of decay,
Where the thickets, thickly springing, daily
must be cleared away.
But alas! our work neglecting, oft we mount the judgment seat,
With his failings, his omissions, we our weary
brother greet;
In some hidden nook forgotten, searching with
a careful eye,
We the springing weeds discover—some slight blemish there decay.
For his selfishness, his blindness, we our brother harshly chide, Gloating in our strength and wisdom, we condemn him in our pride;
Ask not who he hath neglected thus before his door to sweep.
Why grown careless, he has slumbered, failed his garden plot to keep.
On the judgment seat still sitting, we no helping hand extend
To assist our weaker brother his short comings
to amend;
For his laziness, his faltering, we no sweet com-
pasion show,
From our store no cordial bring him, no encouragements bestow.
But while busied with our neighbor, urging him
to ceaseless care,
Calling to the thoughtless idlers, to their labor
to repair,
Lo! amidst the dust has gathered, weeds are growing where of yore Flowers rare and sweet were blooming when we swept before our door.
Ah! how easy o'er our brother faithful ward
and watch to keep,
But alas! before our dwelling hard indeed to sweep!
Harder than to share the conflict, "by the staff"
at home to stay,
Easier far to sit in judgment than to humbly
watch and pray.

Miscellany.
The Consequences.
He and she were driving out together.
He was dark, short and stout—in fact,
some people called him fat—a sure way
of enraging her. His redeeming points were a pair of black eyes, a certain manly, sensible way he had with him, and a reliable look. She was small and blender, looking as if the wind might blow her away some fine March morning,
with "two eyes so soft and brown," and waving, natural—not crimped—chestnut hair, falling in little rings and sprays around a white face, delicate, but full of life and spirit.

Everybody in Knipsic Farm said it was perfectly absurd. At the last sewing society there was but one opinion. It was an unusually full meeting, the engagement having just come out—
Mrs. Daniel Dodge was there, Lance Lambert's aunt; and as no one knew exactly how she stood on the all-absorbing question of the day, a little preliminary beating around the bush was necessary.
Aunt Polly Griggs boldly opened the campaign like the veteran she was.

"So Lance is really engaged at last,"
said she. "He's flirted round so long I didn't know he'd ever settle down and get married."
"Oh, you know there's always something irresistibly fascinating about the school ma'am," suggested sarcastic Mrs.
Scraps, who had not found the same fact
of dress-makers in her own experience.

"Well, if I must say," said Mrs.
Dodge. "I must say I think he's driven his pig to rather a poor market. What he can fancy in that little, pale-faced school ma'am is more than I can see. Her high down village airs, I suppose. A pretty farmer's wife she'll make!"

"Well, that's just what I was a sayin'
to Miss Stowell before you cum in," said Aunt Polly. "Says I, Miss Stowell, you
mark my words, Lance Lambert 'll run
the day he ever let his eyes run over with his good sense. Lance is a fine handed well-to-do young man, and he ought to have a real smart, go-ahead wife
—some good, stout, capable girl, brought up on a farm, with plain sensible notions, like your Lesta or Phemie, for instance. Says Miss Stowell, says she,
that ain't for me to say, of course; but one thing I will say, my girls can turn their hand to anything, from making bread to foddin' and milkin' the cows.
Says she, a farmer that marries a village girl—and a school-ma'am at that—is a fool. They don't know nothin' about work, and are above it, and full of all kinds of extravagant notions, enough to send a man to the poor house."

"How does his mother feel about it?"
queried Mrs. Jedediah Jones.
"Oh, she don't say much. It isn't her way, you know. Besides, it's no use to oppose Lance when his mind is once made up. He's dreadful set."

"Well, I'm afraid he will be sorry,"
with an accent on the afraid that made it sound singularly like hope.
"Will they live at home with the old folks?"
"No; Lance has bought the Jackson farm over at the Corners. He says there is no house big enough for two families."
The Jackson farm! I shouldn't suppose that would be quite grand enough to suit Laura's ideas."

"They're going to fix the house up some, I believe. The barns are good,
and it's nice land for tobacco."
Out in the other room, where the girls were concocting calico dresses for the missionary's children, the subject raged with even greater violence, as might have been expected, considering that Lance had been a general favorite, and in the days of his freedom had roamed
from flower to flower, after the usual butterfly fashion of young bachelors—
They pitied him; they pitied her.
They wondered at him; they wondered at her.
Poverty and sickness, ruin and disaster,
were the mildest of their predictions for
the unfortunate couple.

Equal consternation prevailed in Knipsic village, when it was rumored that Laura Bridges was deliberately determined to marry a farmer. No engagement had created such a commotion
since the next to the last new minister had married Sue Syllabus. Everybody dressed up and called on every one else
to talk it over.

"Is this child crazy?" asked Mrs. Gen.
Sampson of Mrs. Judge Jewett, in her most impressive manner. "To throw herself away on a farmer! It is true the Bridges are not wealthy, but they are one of our oldest families; and Laura,
with her connections, her fine education,
her agreeable, lady-like manners and pretty face, might have married into the very first circles. George Ledell was extremely attentive to her last year, before
she went off teaching that miserable district school, and became infatuated with this coarse farmer."

Then Mrs. Judge Jewett took up the refrain: "She will have no society whatever. She will be obliged to work like a galley-slave—farmer's wives always do.
Think of Laura making butter and cheese, apple-sauce, soft soap, sausages,
mopping, eating with hired men, living in a salt pork!" And Mrs. Jewett shuddered at the dreadful picture imagination
thus presented of a farmer's life.

"Oh, it's truly dreadful!" said Mrs.
General Sampson.
"She can't endure it," said Mrs. Jewett.

"She won't live long," said Mrs.
Sampson.
Meantime the victims, "unconscious
of their doom," were joggling along in a state of perfect happiness and satisfaction. They were driving to the Jackson farm to inspect their future home. It was a muddy, cloudy, bleak March day,
the roads muddy the grass not yet turned green. People who met on the street added, "A disagreeable day!" to their "Good afternoon!" But Lance and Laura found it an uncommonly nice day.
I think they labored under a dim impression, roses were blooming and bob-links warbling all along the road. The summer of youth and love in their hearts
cast its glamour on all the world outside.
The old Jackson farm-house certainly needed to be looked at through a glamour
if ever a house did. It was a story and a half house, the paint worn off, no blinds
the fence, poor at best, now dilapidated,
a solitary scraggy lilac representing the shrubbery.

There is always something slightly pathetic in these same scraggy lilacs and flowering almonds, one so often sees struggling for life in the otherwise dreary waste of a farmer's front yard. Some woman once had heart to try and redeem
her power the desolate barrenness
of her surroundings.

Poor Mrs. Jackson set out the lilac when she was young and hopeful, and still expected something of life; before Jackson's harsh, narrow skinnedness
took all the heart out of her, and made her the broken-spirited drudge, who worked on like a tired-horse till one day she dropped into her grave, and there, let us hope, found rest.

And now another young couple were coming here to try that difficult experiment we call Life, the experiment whose success so many of us would gladly try over again, with the dear-bought experience that comes of failure.

"This doesn't look like a very suitable place for you, Laura," said Lance, as he swung her lightly down to terra firma in his strong hands. However, I am thankful it stands upon a hill. I like to view the landscape o'er!"

"By cutting away those forlorn hemlocks we shall get a view of the river and mountains beyond, picturesque enough to satisfy even you. It's very pleasant here in summer, little as you would think it now."

The house was more dreary still.
The papers looked all the more dingy and faded from having been originally of gaudy and flaunting designs and colors.
Ochre-yellow being a durable color, not often requiring renewal, every room but the parlor was painted that hue. The ceilings resembled the works of the old masters in that they were very cracked and smoky. Stairs, papers, an old hat or two, a broken rush-bottomed chair, littered the floors. The March wind howled round the house, rattling the windows, and wailing down the chimneys
as it were Mrs. Jackson's ghost uttering warnings of doleful presage to her successor.

After inspecting the whole premises,
and discussing the capabilities—after Lance had shown Laura how he intended to put a sink in the kitchen, with pumps
to bring hard and soft water directly into it, instead of her lugging the former
by the painful from the well in the yard,
and catching the latter in tubs or however she could, as Mrs. Jackson had been obliged to do, Jackson never having time to furnish his own household—
after Laura had confidently assured Lance he had reciprocated in kind, only
more so, they returned to the front room,
where seated in state on an old dry goods
box, they proceeded to engage in the pleasing occupation of erecting air-castles.

Let not the youthful reader sneer at this hero and heroine of mine as prosy, firesome, uninteresting, because their talk turned on pumps, furnaces, and similar unromantic topics.

This was how they came to talk of furnaces, Lance said. "How mouldy and musty this smells! I wonder if Jackson kept his cheese here?"

Probably this was the best parlor, and
the sun was never permitted to fairly shine into it more than once a year. New paper, paint, and whitewash, and plenty
of air and sun for awhile, will remedy it,
I suspect. But that remedy was, do you suppose Knipsic would be able to bear it, if we should have a furnace?
It makes a use so much pleasanter and more usable."

"It certainly is a great innovation.—
No one in Knipsic Farm has one. The idea of a furnace selling his wood and buying coal will probably be a great shock to the public; but after all, I don't know whose concern it is but ours."

"Aunt Polly Griggs—" mischievously suggested Laura.
"Aunt Polly Griggs may hang her "harp on a willow-tree," so far as we are concerned. I'm glad you haven't the idea. Laura most women seem to have, that one's house is altogether too good to be used by the family, and must be kept most of the time in solemn state
and gloom."

"I believe," said Laura, "in furnishing a house pleasantly and comfortably,
but not expensively—nothing merely for show. Then take all the comfort you can out of it. I expect to do wonders with that six hundred dollars Aunt Dunlap left me, to say nothing about the two hundred I've laid up—profits of 'teaching the young idea, etc.'"

"How delightful to marry on her terms!"
observed Lance.

"Mercenary young man! Thou shalt be twined by the ear for that speech!"
said Laura, suiting the action to the word, and being repaid by a sound kissing
which it only needed the slightest prohibition in the world to withhold. Lance indeed, as Laura ought to have known—in fact, I fear, did know.

Then Laura said there was something on her mind, and Lance was anxious to officially as father confessor.
"It's a fancy of mine, a secret desire,
that I am afraid to tell you. I know you will think it is really extravagant, far worse than the furnace. You will begin to repeat of your bargain, I fear, and I think there is some truth in every one's forebodings about my 'high notions,' village airs, etc.; for people always find out, sooner or later, what 'they say' if they are not true."

"Nonsense, Laura. What is it a rose's egg?"
"Almost as foolish, for us, I fear. A bow-window, if you must know. I always did like bow-windows, they are so cheerful and sunny; and filled with plants
in the winter, they give a room a perfect summer-like look. Then one takes off the stiff angularity of a room, and gives it individuality. Here's a proposition in the Rule of Three for you, 'founded on fact,' as story-writers say: As a space
of romance and imagination to a woman's character, so is a bow-window to a square room."

"Ah, Laura, you have such an awful way of putting things! I foresee I shall be 'managed,' and never know it!"
However, we'll contrive the bow-window somehow, if possible," said the indulgent Lance, who—being in the delightfully acquiescent state of mind
often manifested in mankind before marriage, when the wish of the beloved object is law—if Laura had suggested a three-story cupola as a desirable addition to their modest mansion, he would undoubtedly have seen at once the extreme feasibility and necessity of the thing.

"Spring and Summer passed away—
Lance haunted carpenters like an avenging spirit, became an object of terror to painters and tinners, worked hard on the farm days, took Laura out driving in the pleasant summer evenings. Laura took a trip to New York, and made a few modest purchases at Stewart's. Not much for herself, she saw no special reason why she should dress more differently after marriage than before—
Besides, she was carefully husbanding
Aunt Dunlap's six hundred with a view to furniture. She felt an honest pride in doing something to help towards providing the mutual home, in being a little helpmeet, to start with at least, even if she were to prove the miserable failure in the end every one predicted. Long webs of cotton cloth grew into sheets,
pillow-cases, curtains, under her busy needle, flying in and out thro' the long summer days. Also, she found time to practice various culinary arts in the kitchen. A bit of the summer was put away for the winter use, in shape of canned berries, peaches, etc. Her bread and pies were really quite wonderful, so Lance thought.

Early in October they were married,
and moved into their new home, now
hardly to be recognized in its daintiness
of fresh paint, pretty papers, new furniture. It was far from being a fashionable or imposing residence; nothing Gothic, or Italian, or Elizabethan, or even a mixture of the three. It was a homely, comfortable, and useful house,
with a few touches of the little bow-window; but it had an eminently cozy, homelike air. The moment you stepped inside,
you received a comfortable, cheerful impression, as if here were a place where people were in the habit of enjoying themselves. Entering into the little square hall—one on one side was the dining-room, on the others the parlor, back of the parlor, the bed-room. The furnace imparting summer temperature, the doors of these adjoining rooms all stood open, giving good air, and a deal of roominess for so small a house—
The parlor paper was a green and gilt flower on a light ground; the carpet, an ingrain, small checks, green the predominant color. Through the bow window
the sun shone brightly in over Laura's
new plants, making a summer within, even if the ground were water with snow over it,
and the mercury down among the zeroes.

Each side of the bow-window, on the left, a bust of Parian busts, Eve and Psyche, wedding presents, looked out from English ivy that twined around them, and then met over the hanging basket in the middle of the window. On the walls hung two or three good engravings and photographs, over them clusters of bright autumn leaves—souvenirs of the wedding tour. A set of hanging book shelves, bearing the useful libraries of Laura, and Lance presented an odd combination of poetry and work on Agriculture.
Then there was a lounge—not a rack contrived to exasperate the human frame to the utmost by its knobiness—an easy chair, a cane-chair, a rockingchair, one or two camp-seated chairs, a centre table with the big lamp, books,
papers, Laura's work-basket.

This was the family sitting-room.—

Poetry.
For the Patriot.
In Memoriam.
A fair bark was launched upon life's sea,
For a while it sailed right merrily.
The sky above was all so bright and clear,
The sea so smooth we had no cause for fear.
It was not always thus. There came a day
When heavy clouds obscured the pleasant way:
The sky was overcast, the winds did drive
The sea, till it in anger seemed alive;
Then like the manlius on Tropic seas,
That hoists its tiny sail to catch the breeze;
And in its little crimson-tinted boat,
Rath in warm sunshine would forever float;
When clouds arose and storms disturbed the air,
Sinks 'neath the waves to regions calm and fair.
So sank our little bark beneath the strife,
That makes such havoc on the sea of life.
Who require this that blends its murmur low,
With life's deep surges heaving to and fro?
The requiem of a little maiden fair,
With hazel eyes and curling auburn hair,
Who on this earth had scarce five summers seen
Ere she with those was numbered that have been
To all who recall her smiling face,
Her rosy cheeks and sweet bewitching grace,
The little words she said, the hymns she sung,
Are stored our sweetest memories among.

MILK TOAST. The bits of bread that almost invariably accumulate in a few days can be made into a nice dish for supper or breakfast. Make the dip by thickening boiling milk with a little flour or arrow-root or corn starch. Put but little butter into the dip, but spread
all the pieces of toast with butter, before pouring the milk over them. If the toast is very hard moisten with a little boiling water.

A VERY USEFUL KETTLE. The
double kettle is almost indispensable for cooking oatmeal, wheat, beans, and everything that requires to cook slowly and long. One form is much like a tea-kettle and has a smaller tin kettle fitted inside. Care is needed not to let the water all boil out, for although the food is safe, the kettle is much injured by burning.

What does a stone become when it is thrown into the middle of the Dead Sea? Wet of course.
An old lady in Lockport recently achieved eminence by carrying a quart of popped corn to a donation party and eating two dozen fried oysters, a pound
of crackers, three slices of fruit cake,
half a mince pie and some apples, after which she was threatened with a "spasm" and in the effort to prevent it, she sacrificed all the wine there was in the house.
She attends donations regularly and does
a good deal for the church in that way.

Travelled from Providence. I am a Canadian. My father is a large farmer
there, and has had dealings with a merchant of that city, a Mr. Thompson, who owes my father over three hundred dollars on a span of horses. He proposed that I should come to Providence to attend a school for young men, of which he is a trustee, and said that I should be very welcome to board in his family. I started from Montreal, but, on arriving at Mr. Thompson's house, I found that he had failed in business, and gone
West. The landlord of the hotel where I stopped refused to board me until I could get a letter from home; and, by the way, my pocket-book and watch were stolen from me on the cars, and I have no means of getting home but to walk to Burlington, Vermont, and find a friend of my father's, of whom I can get money to go the rest of the way on the cars. My trunk is retained by the landlord, in the city of Providence, as security for my bill. I am home-sick and footsore.

Shoh! I wouldn't suppose anybody could be so mean, I vow! said the farmer.
"Two had!" said Lucy.
Mrs. Vane wiped the moisture from her eyes as she thought of her own absence, and echoed:
"Two had!"
A comfortable bed was provided for the unfortunate stranger, after he had described to the wondering listeners all the richness of his father's estate, in Canada.

The next morning after breakfast, the forlorn young man remarked:
"I wish I dared ask you to put confidence enough in me to loan me twelve dollars to go to Burlington, Vermont—My feet are very sore, and I dread the terrible walk."
Farmer Vane was a good man. He looked at the well-dressed, gentlemanly
young man before him, and answered:
"We farmers, don't have much ready money, but I guess we can raise that much."
"Thank you, sir. I will return it, threefold the amount, the moment I reach my father's house. In a week's time you may go to the express office, and you will find a large box there. We shall send you some presents."
"Rho! You needn't send anything but the money!"
"George Vane, Hopkinton, Massachusetts."
"Mine is Joseph Rallo, Montreal, Canada."
"You'd better stay to dinner!"
"Thank you. Could you carry me to the depot this afternoon?"
Well, we are proper busy just now, but I guess I might find time for that. Yes, I'll see you to the cars, poor boy," said
the warm-hearted farmer.

The worst kind of education—To be brought up by a policeman.

gingerbread, with ham sandwiches, for the use of the young man while on his journey. A few apples were added, and Joseph Rallo set out from the farmer's house with many good wishes following him. At the depot, after the cars had started, the depot-master asked farmer Vane, "Who was that genteel young chap?"
Farmer Vane proceeded to relate some particulars of the young man's history,
but was interrupted by the depot master,
"I thought so! I thought so! His face looked familiar. He's the very one who came through Fayville about two years ago with the same story. Mr.
Jones gave him a night's lodging, with supper and breakfast, and ten dollars in money. Mrs. Jones went around among the neighbors, relating their good deed,
and Fayville folks thought Jones quite a hero. But they have never seen or heard anything of the young man since. I heard of the same chap going through Ashland
in the same cheap way. I rather think that's his business."

Why the Butter Didn't Come.
They had a new hired girl over at Keyser's farm, just outside of Newswende, and on Tuesday, before starting to spend the day with a friend, Mrs. Keyser instructed the girl to whitewash the kitchen in her absence. Upon returning, Mrs. Keyser found the job completed in a very satisfactory manner. On Wednesday Mrs.
Keyser always churns, and last Wednesday when she was ready she went out,
and finding that Mrs. Keyser had already put the milk into the churn, she began to turn the handle. This was at eight o'clock in the morning, and she turned until ten without any signs of butter appearing. Then she called in the hired man and he turned until dinner time,
when he knocked off with some very offensive language addressed to the butter, which had not yet come. After dinner the hired girl took hold of the crank
and turned it energetically until two o'clock, when she let go with a remark which conveyed the impression that she believed the churn to be haunted. Then Mrs. Keyser came out and said she wanted to know what was the matter with that churn anyhow. It was a good enough churn, if people only knew enough to work it. Mr. Keyser then worked the crank until half-past three, when, as the butter had not come, he surrendered it again to the hired man, having an engagement in the village. The man ground
the machine to an accompaniment of frightful imprecations. Then the Keyser children each took a turn for half an hour, then Mrs. Keyser tried her hand, and when she was exhausted she again enlisted the hired girl, who said her prayers while she turned. But the butter didn't come. When Keyser came home and found the churn still in action he blasted his eyes and did some other innocent swearing, and then he seized
the handle and said he'd make the butter
come, if he kicked up an earthquake in doing it. Mr. Keyser effected about two hundred revolutions of the crank a minute, enough to have made any ordinary
butter come from the ends of the earth,
and when the perspiration began to stream from him and still the butter didn't come, he uttered one wild yell of rage and disappointment and kicked the churn, and left it there. A good, honest and intelligent servant who knows how to churn can find a situation at Keyser's.
There is a vacancy.

Feeding the Hungry.
"Can you furnish me with supper and lodging for the night?" asked a gentlemanly, handsome young man of a farmer's rosy lassie, who opened the kitchen door in answer to his low rap.
"Wait a moment and I'll ask mother,"
was the reply.
Mrs. Vane had heard the request and the answer, and her fair face was clouded
as she said:
"I don't see how we can keep him.
There's the sewing society to meet tomorrow, and I've been on my feet all day cooking and fussing to have everything ready. Lucy is just going to spend the evening with Sue Moore, and I don't feel as if I could drag round and get another supper and clear away again—
I'm so tired!"
"Shall I tell him to go to the next house, mother?"
The door was gently pushed open
and the polite stranger said:
"Don't let me trouble you madam I am very sorry to put you to any inconvenience, and should not have applied for this favor but that I have walked thirty miles since daylight, and am so very, very tired!"
A low sigh followed, and the polite
young man bowed a good evening, and turned to depart.
"I guess you may stay if you are very tired. I've got a boy about your age somewhere, and I don't know but he may need a favor sometime. Come in and sit down while I get your supper."

Between the two there was soon a tempting supper on the table.
The young stranger reverently said
grace and then proceeded to dispose of the eatables at a rate that suggested the wisdom of asking a blessing on the food
if he didn't want to die of congestion of the stomach before morning.
He had just pushed his chair back from the table when the good farmer entered.
"Good evening, stranger. Pretty cool tonight?"
Yes, sir. Being rather unpleasantly situated here, I have generally come to space traveled far to-day?"
Mrs. Vane was putting away the milk in bright tin pans, and she came to the milkroom door to hear the answer. Lucy allowed her dishcloth to move slowly as she listened.

Unaired Rooms.
A writer in the Country Gentleman
says "I pass some houses in every town
whose windows might as well be sealed
up with the walls for any purpose they have but to let in the light. They are never open Summer or Winter. In Winter it is too cold; in Summer the first stray in, or if they are netted, the dust sifts through the nets. Now, I can tell a person who inhabits such chambers
when I pass him on the street there is such a smell about his clothing, I always wish for a sniff of cologne, or hartshorn,
or burnt feathers, or something of the sort, "to take the taste out." A house that is never aired has every nook and corner filled with the stale odors of cooked meats, boiled vegetables, especially cabbage and onions, which as the weeks go by, literally reek in their hiding places. Who has not wished sometimes to hang a new servant's clothing out to doctors some frosty night until it was thoroughly aired? But I have seen the fine ladies come sweeping in to church
with their velvets and silks, when said evidence of having been in just down stairs." Oh, what a tale
even wicked, but there is something noble about them, something to excite your admiration when compared with these Chinese.

A Model Boy.
Lady Barker, in a recent work gives her ideal of a model boy, as follows: "If I could make a model boy, I'll tell you what he should be like. He should love cold water and hate a lie. He should be frank and unsuspicious, as becomes a noble, trusting nature and yet he should be neither silly or soft. He should have an appetite like a wolf, for I should wish him to be tall and strong; but he must not be a greedy. He should not be a ashamed of loving and reverencing all that is good and holy and pure, but with nothing of the molly-coddle about him.
He should have a fine, sweet temper, yet
he should be, as the Yankee song says,
"A ockerd man in a row," and he should know how to take care of himself with his fists."

A Suggestion.
Save the tea leaves for a few days,
then steep them in a tin pail or pun for half an hour, strain through a sieve, and use the liquid to wash all the varnished part. It requires very little elbow polish," as the tea acts as a strong detergent, cleansing the paint from all its inpurities, and making the varnish equal to new. It cleans window-sashes and oilcloths; indeed, any varnished surface is improved by its application. It washes window-panes and mirrors much better than water, and is excellent for cleaning
black walnut picture and looking-glass frames. It will not do to wash unvarnished paint with it.

Common Sense.
Common sense is an element in which many persons are sadly wanting. Some are so unfortunate as to be born without
it. Others grow to maturity with such a total disregard of it that they are virtually in the same condition. Common sense implies sound perception, correct reason,
mental capacity and good understanding.
It is not to be acquired entirely by education, for we have seen a horse that had the education of a college graduate, but had the misfortune to meet. It has to be born in a man. It may be polished and made more acute by experience; it takes a man more than a lifetime to acquire it if he depends entirely on book learn-

NUMBER FIVE.
They have stores and shops here as good as any in New York or Boston;
their hotels are magnificent. The "Palace Hotel," one now building, is said to be the largest one in the world; and you come across fine restaurants at every five steps, with such names as "The Poodle Dog," "The Nucleus," "The Critter-
on," &c.
You can live here cheaper and better than any place else in America; for one-half what it would cost in Boston or New York. An

SATURDAY, APRIL 17, 1875.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

Short communications and items of news earnestly solicited from friends and patrons.

APPOINTMENTS. The Selectmen have made the following appointments for the ensuing year:

Surveyors of Wood and Bark.—Richard Newcomb, C. A. Spear, E. A. Adams, Thomas E. Fernald, N. H. Beals, George W. Ripley, Elihu Ramsdell, J. F. Newcomb, Geo. B. Pray and James C. Russell.

Superintendent of Town Hall.—Jacob Flint.

Superintendent of Lock-up.—Washington M. French.

Weighers of Coal.—George B. Pray, Joseph M. Glover, W. W. Ewell, Freeman Josephs and C. N. Richards.

Weighers of Hay and Grains.—Walter W. Ewell and Freeman Josephs.

Weigher of vessels and sale of Weights and Measures.—George Saville.

Secton and Undertaker.—John Hall.

Care of Town Clock.—John O. Holden.

SIXTH ANNIVERSARY. On Tuesday evening last, one of the roughest nights of the season, the St. Paul's Lodge, Knights of Pythias, celebrated their sixth anniversary, at their Castle hall, over Bent's store.

Only about one-half of the members were present with their ladies, still it was considered by all the Brothers one of the most social gatherings they had ever enjoyed.

An excellent hot supper was provided by D. F. French, in his usual good taste, which pleased the palate and called forth many encomiums.

DEATH WARRANT. The warrant for the execution of James H. Costley has been completed and transmitted to the Sheriff of Norfolk County.

The date fixed is Friday, the 25th of June, between the hours of 9 and 11 o'clock, at the yard of the County Jail at Dedham.

He will be hung in the main corridor of the jail, and the gallows will be the same as used in the execution of the James brothers, Webster, McElhenny, Hersey and other criminals.

The wicked-looking apparatus is at present in Charles street jail in Boston, and is a clumsy and ill-proportioned affair, warped out of shape, and generally in a dilapidated condition.

It is no credit to any man to be hung upon it, and the state should provide a more modern machine to do its work of disposing of criminals.

The Authorities of Dedham have deemed it necessary to place a person in charge of Costley, and according to state Constable Isaac Porter of Braintree has been selected for that duty, who is with Costley all the time.

Costley has been removed from the cell in which he has been quarantined since his incarceration, to one in the west wing, the last move gives his keeper a room adjoining.

Forty-two miles long. It was voted at a town meeting held in Dedham last week to change the name of Shawmut avenue and Centre street, commencing at the West Roxbury line on the old turnpike road, and from thence to the boundary line of the town of Norwood, to Washington street.

This vote together with the action of Norwood, Woburn and other towns, makes Washington street forty-two miles long—from Boston to Providence.

Geo. Crane & Co., will open their new store on Hancock street to-night. Call and see the "elephant."

PERSONAL. The public will miss the services of a reliable and faithful servant at the Quincy Post Office, by the resignation of Miss Annie E. Underwood, whose term of nearly two years constant attendance has terminated.

Her long experience, attentive and obliging manners, and constant fidelity has ever made her a favorite with our citizens who visit the office, and it seems as if the public good would have been subserved by retaining her.

Having made several additions and corrections to our list of names of septuagenarians, we shall publish them next week.

SUPERINTENDENT. Colonel Frank W. Parker, of Manchester, N. H., has been chosen Superintendent of the Public Schools of this town, and assumes his duties on Monday next.

Col. Parker was for several years a very successful teacher in Manchester and more recently was Superintendent of Schools at Dayton, Ohio. There were many applicants for the position but the Committee feel confident that they have selected a gentleman well qualified for the office.

JOHNSON'S NEW UNIVERSAL CYCLOPEDIA. The editors of this work have spared neither pains nor expense in bringing it full up to the times in every department. They have kept in view the wants of the scholar, the business man, and the family, and in consequence, have made it an admirable book of reference for all classes. There is hardly a requisition that a studious man wishes to make upon it, in his reading or writing, that is not solidly satisfied.

The work is sold only by subscription, and we are pleased to learn that the agent for Quincy, Mr. E. Cottle, an intelligent and reliable gentleman, is meeting with very gratifying success.

For the Patriot.

REMARKABLE FEAT. A young lad, aged 12 years, son of Mr. David Burdell of this town, put his skates on at the door steps of his home, on Friday, February 26th, and started for the shore.

From this point glided down Town river as far as Raccoon Island, from there to Nut and then to Hangman's, around Great Hill to Grape Island, and then returned home.

During all this long jaunt he did not remove his skates until he arrived at the door step from whence he started. Pretty good skating for a boy of his age, and what lad has ever beat it?

Spelling Match.

A grand spelling match was held in the Methodist Church, at Quincy Point, on Thursday evening last, under direction of Isaac F. Hall, Samuel Graves, J. L. Whitton, Ester Hall, and E. A. Beal.

The proceeds, amounting to about $25, were for the benefit of the Quincy Point Charitable Society.

Edward G. Tilton, Esq., master for the occasion, put the words out very distinctly, in many cases pronouncing each syllable.

Isaac F. Hall was appointed judge, and was assisted in his duties by James H. Slade, Esq.

The sides were formed by adults residing in that vicinity on the right, and the children of the High and Grammar schools on the left.

Depot was the first word missed. One of the school girls said depot and retired. Afterwards she was allowed to return to her seat, as it was pronounced a French word, and all such words were not to be given out.

The next word missed was accommodation, the adult spelling it, left out an m.

The next puzzle was separate, which was spelled separate.

COLD WEATHER. We have nearly reached the middle of spring and yet
the weather is severely cold and blustering.
In the historical report of the 19th of April, 1776, we read that the morning was
warm and lovely, the grass just high
enough to wave in the wind, and the trees were all in bud. Last Monday the centennial anniversary of that day was
certainly the reverse, it being a very disagreeable and uncomfortable one, with
the grass scarcely perceptible, and the
trees as brown looking as in the middle
of December. But we are looking forward to the mild and gentle weather to
come, when the joyous birds will warble
their sweet roundels and the air shall
be filled with the sweet perfume of the
beautiful flowers. Mr. Charles P. Tirrell
informs us that in 1816, which was called
the cold season, there was frost every month throughout the whole year, and
he remembers of coming out of Mr.
Brigham's store in the month of June,
and seeing a frost. It is very uncommon to see ice along the shores at this season of the year, but Mr. Obed Allen
informs us, that during the present week
the shores at Germantown were fringed
with ice, a circumstance he never re-
members to have noticed before.
A GOOD JOKE. Lewis Spear, a comical genius, well known to many of our readers, having been born in this place,
and resided here for many years, but
now stopping at Templeton, played a very good joke over one of the new Selectmen of that place recently. The Worcester Spy has it as follows:—
"A very good story is told concerning
one of the Selectmen of the town of
Templeton, who is now in office, Capt.
C. W. Davis. One day last week a
seemingly looking chap applied to him
for food and lodging, and was told to travel for the poor farm. As he turned to obey the order, his dilapidated appearance so touched the tender heart of
Davis that he gave orders to have him
lodged at the hotel, which was done.
The next day Davis, in company with
Mr. Wilson, another Selectman, visited
the poor farm, and on the way they met
one of the inmates of the establishment.
"Hallo!" said Wilson, "here is Spear.
Where did he come from?" "Spear,"
said Davis, "why, that's the chap I lodged last night. See here Spear, did I put you up last night?" "Yes, sir,"
said the inmate, "and then that man
belonged here." "Well, you see,"
said Davis, "my father was a judge, and
he used to tell me that a good witness
always answered his questions truthfully.
You didn't ask me?" The inmate now
intends to get better acquainted with the occupants of his own Poor Farm."

ONE OF THE PLEASANTEST. Last
Friday evening concluded the Universi-tarian Societies, and a pleasant or more
enjoyable party have not met this winter
in our town. This sociable was a calico
dress and necktie coffee party, and was held at the residence of Mrs. W. E. Sturtevant, who conducted the whole affair in
the most satisfactory and successful manner. The gathering was one of the largest of the season.
THE TRAVELLER. Our sugar
and molasses trade show a great improvement from last year. Vessels from all parts of Cuba, Porto Rico, Barbadoes and other
sugar ports are constantly arriving, and
immense cargoes of sugar and molasses
are daily being received. Besides these,
numerous vessels from Manila and Java
are on the way and arriving. Boston is growing as a sugar market, and is
equalled on the continent only by New York. Boston wharf at this time of the year presents a scene of great commercial activity.
THE MINING FEVER runs calm but
not without excitement. If the assays are correct, the Chippewa leads equals in
the Pacific States. E. P. Shaw lately
purchased six acres of land for $3000
cash, and New York parties have engaged to pay $15,000, on the 18th inst.,
for fifteen acres. Neither lot would have brought one-eighth as much six months
ago.
SAMUEL R. WELLS, the well-known phenomenist and publisher, died at his residence in New York on Wednesday
last week, aged fifty-five.
THE OLD COLONY RAILROAD company has taken measures for the laying of the telegraph wire which is to work the new electric signals to be erected along the line of the road. The signals will be on the west side, and the telegraph wire
will be on the east side, and with this view began shifting the wires yesterday.
SUPERPHOSPHATE. Last year I raised
over 200 bushels of potatoes, with Bradley's Phosphate in the hill. I selected 250 potatoes from one-fourth of an acre,
which weighed 200 pounds, or five bush-
els. I had some that weighed upwards
of ten pounds each. I have used three
to four tons of Bradley's Phosphate each
year for several years past. I shall continue to use the same, believing it to be
the best and most profitable fertilizer in
the market. No farmer can afford to raise potatoes with barn-yard manure in
the hill. When you consider the cost of digging, and the high price of help, this Phosphate is the most cheapest and best.

In the historical report of the 19th of April, 1776, we read that the morning was
warm and lovely, the grass just high
enough to wave in the wind, and the
trees were all in bud. Last Monday the
centennial anniversary of that day was
certainly the reverse, it being a very dis-
agreeable and uncomfortable one, with
the grass scarcely perceptible, and the
trees as brown looking as in the middle
of December. But we are looking forward to the mild and gentle weather to
their sweet roundels and the air shall
be filled with the sweet perfume of the
beautiful flowers. Mr. Charles P. Tirrell
informs us that in 1816, which was called
the cold season, there was frost every
he remembers of coming out of Mr.
Brigham's store in the month of June,
and seeing a frost. It is very uncom-
mon to see ice along the shores at this season of the year, but Mr. Obed Allen
informs us, that during the present week
the shores at Germantown were fringed
with ice, a circumstance he never re-
members to have noticed before.
A GOOD JOKE. Lewis Spear, a com-
ical genius, well known to many of our
readers, having been born in this place,
and resided here for many years, but
now stopping at Templeton, played a
very good joke over one of the new Selectmen of that place recently. The Worcester Spy has it as follows:—
"A very good story is told concerning
one of the Selectmen of the town of
Templeton, who is now in office, Capt.
C. W. Davis. One day last week a
seemingly looking chap applied to him
for food and lodging, and was told to
travel for the poor farm. As he turned
to obey the order, his dilapidated appearance so touched the tender heart of
Davis that he gave orders to have him
lodged at the hotel, which was done.
The next day Davis, in company with
Mr. Wilson, another Selectman, visited
the poor farm, and on the way they met
one of the inmates of the establishment.
"Hallo!" said Wilson, "here is Spear.
Where did he come from?" "Spear,"
said Davis, "why, that's the chap I
lodged last night. See here Spear, did I
put you up last night?" "Yes, sir,"
said the inmate, "and then that man
belonged here." "Well, you see,"
said Davis, "my father was a judge, and
he used to tell me that a good witness
always answered his questions truthfully.
You didn't ask me?" The inmate now
intends to get better acquainted with the
occupants of his own Poor Farm."

ONE OF THE PLEASANTEST. Last
Friday evening concluded the Universi-
tarian Societies, and a pleasant or more
enjoyable party have not met this winter
in our town. This sociable was a calico
dress and necktie coffee party, and was
held at the residence of Mrs. W. E. Stur-
tevant, who conducted the whole affair in
the most satisfactory and successful manner. The gathering was one of the largest of the season.
THE TRAVELLER. Our sugar
and molasses trade show a great improvement from last year. Vessels from all parts
of Cuba, Porto Rico, Barbadoes and other
sugar ports are constantly arriving, and
immense cargoes of sugar and molasses
are daily being received. Besides these,
numerous vessels from Manila and Java
are on the way and arriving. Boston is growing as a sugar market, and is
equalled on the continent only by New York. Boston wharf at this time of the year presents a scene of great commercial
activity.
THE MINING FEVER runs calm but
not without excitement. If the assays are correct, the Chippewa leads equals in
the Pacific States. E. P. Shaw lately
purchased six acres of land for $3000
cash, and New York parties have engaged to pay $15,000, on the 18th inst.,
for fifteen acres. Neither lot would have brought one-eighth as much six months
ago.

SUPERPHOSPHATE. Last year I raised
over 200 bushels of potatoes, with Brad-
ley's Phosphate in the hill. I selected
250 potatoes from one-fourth of an acre,
which weighed 200 pounds, or five bush-
els. I had some that weighed upwards
of ten pounds each. I have used three
to four tons of Bradley's Phosphate each
year for several years past. I shall continue to use the same, believing it to be
the best and most profitable fertilizer in
the market. No farmer can afford to raise potatoes with barn-yard manure in
the hill. When you consider the cost of
digging, and the high price of help, this Phosphate is the most cheapest and best.

Poetry.
For the Patriot.
"And 'ere in Winter's deepest gloom, Shall spread around its sweet perfume."
BY HARVEY CARPENTER.

I love to see in winter-time,
Within where sunbeams brightly shone,
Those precious flowers; whose sweet perfume
Exhaling from their verdant bloom,
Will soon pervade the spacious room,
When in the light, and genial air,
They have so gently flourished fair.

Soon Winter shall have passed away,
And spring-time come when all is gay:
Then rays of sun and gentle showers,
Shall give to earth their magic powers,
And make the garden bloom with flowers—
As if the old and young to cheer
With hope that Summer draweth near.

Hence beams of light which help create
A vital force with power so great,
Are 'ere a symbol of the life
Which man should live, — where gloom and sorrow,
And much that chills the heart is rife,
That power from him on all may be,
As rays of sun on flowers we see.

Or as if this life is a flower,
Or grass which withers in an hour;
If man, in health and strength to-day,
To-morrow in the grave he lay
From friends and kindred far away—
We ne'er should love this world so well,
As Heaven, wherein we hope to dwell.

Agricultural, &c.
Tomatoes as a Farm Crop.
This crop is generally profitable even
on high priced lands near cities where it is usually grown. It will bear transportation some distance with careful handling, and is a crop which many farmers might profitably cultivate on a small scale. It does not demand very rich ground, nor as a field crop, any better care than should be given to corn or potatoes. A larger average yield can be got in tomatoes than in potatoes, and
the average price is generally higher—
The richer the ground the larger the crop; but it is also a little later and the price lower. A two-year-old clover sod,
well plowed under in May, is rich enough
for a field crop if a little well rotted stable manure is put under each hill at planting time. There is no need of greater expense in after culture than for potatoes, excepting in harvesting and marketing. Tomatoes are taken to market in baskets instead of in bulk, and
hence less can be carried in a wagon load than of potatoes. The plants should be started early in a hot bed and transplanted
at least once, twice would be better, before putting into open ground. This transplanting is important to secure a stocky growth, and induces early fruitfulness. The transplanting also causes numerous fine roots, which save the plant from injury at the time when set into the open field, and when rapid, vigorous growth is most important. A well rooted "stubby" plant, twice transplanted, is well worth a dozen that has grown up without moving in the seed bed.

If no better way is feasible, clip the tops and shorten the roots as they grow
by passing a knife between the rows—
This will serve nearly as good a purpose
as the first transplanting, which must be done very carefully to avoid loss. It is not worth while to set in the open field
until the ground has become quite warm
—in this latitude from the 5th to the 15th of June. Hathaway's Excelsior and Early Smooth Red are reliable sorts for field cultivation. For very early, Hubbard's Curled Leaf is best, but it is a light-cropper, and the very early market is soon filled. Any one attempting to grow tomatoes by the acre will be likely to get fancy prices for only a few extra ears. There is generally a better later market—toward the last of the season, and for this there is no superior to the Trophy. It is smooth, fine fleshed and productive. Both the Trophy and Hathaway's Excelsior require richer soil than the Smooth Red, and they are also rather more productive. Grown as a field crop, tomatoes, with fair cultivation, will yield from 300 to 600 bushels per acre—
The price varies so widely that no reliable estimate can be made of the product,
but any one knowing the usual prices in his vicinity, can readily judge whether it would prove profitable. Both the Trophy and Hathaway's Excelsior have made much larger profits from tomatoes than most farmers are forced to be content with for their usual farm crops—Cor.

Anecdotes.
"How are you getting on at your new place?" asked a lady of a girl whom she had recommended for a situation—
"Very well, thank you," answered the girl.

"I'm glad to hear it," said the lady;
"your employer is a very nice person, and you cannot do too much for her."

"I don't mean to, ma'am," was the innocent reply.

The Bishop of Wurtzburg once asked a sprightly little shepherd boy, "What are you doing here, my lad?"

"Tending swine,"

"How much do you get?"

"On flour a week."

"I am also a shepherd," continued the Bishop, "but I get much more pay."

"Then I suppose you have more swine under your care," innocently replied the boy.

"Did anything about the defendant strike your eye as remarkable?" asked a New York judge of the plaintiff in a case of assault and battery.

"It did, yer honor."

"And what was it?" continued the judge.

"His fist, yer honor."

"Johnny, what are you doing, my son?"

"Oh! nothing, only trying to hit Frank on the fingers with the hatchet."

PHYSICIANS COVERED
I suppose there is not in the whole of a physician's experience anything as human suffering which calls for such sympathy and pity to such extent as to witness the excruciating pains of a poor mortal suffering from that fearful disease Rheumatism. Hereof there has been a considerable diversity of opinion among men of science as to the nature of this disease, some locating it in the blood, others in the muscles, and others in the joints. Viewing
it as an acute nervous disorder, but it is now generally admitted to be a disease arising from circulation in the blood, and further it is admitted that Rheumatism can never be thoroughly cured until the blood is purified. We feel confident that none will feel better satisfied and relieved than we have found out that a true cure for this stubborn disease has been discovered. The following testimony from a Boston business man cannot fail to convince all who read it.

Diamond Rheumatic Cure,
is a wonderful medical discovery.
Home Testimonial, Boston, Jan. 1st, 1875.

Prof. ALPHONSE HILLER:
Dear Sir: I desire to state that for the past three years I have been troubled greatly with rheumatic pains, severe in the arms, and at times in the legs. I was compelled to remain in bed a helpless sufferer, and the most honest confession of my condition was that I was a helpless sufferer. A friend brought me two bottles of your Diamond Rheumatic Cure, and I used it with pleasure. I state that these two bottles cured me of my disease. I have now perfect ease, and am able to perform my usual duties. I am grateful to you for the cure, and I am sure that your Diamond Rheumatic Cure will cure
many others who are suffering from this disease. I am, Sir, very respectfully, Yours, P. SHEEHAN, Merchant Tailor.

The discovery of this medicine has walked the streets of New York for the past twenty years, making Rheumatism a specialty. It has been found to be all ever used in the treatment of this disease. It has been found to be the most perfect

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, MAY 1, 1875.

"Born to do Master, or do not be." We are.

Short communications and items of news are received from friends and patrons.

APPOINTMENTS. The following gentlemen have been appointed by the Selectmen as Engineers of the Fire Department, of this town, for the year ensuing:—

John W. Hall, Herbert N. Federber, Edward A. Spear, Amos M. Litchfield, Michael Walsh and James H. Elcock. We learn that these gentlemen are to hold a meeting this evening to choose their chief.

FIRE. A large barn in East Milton, in the rear of Mr. Babcock's store, belonging to Mr. Edward Adams, was discovered to be on fire about half-past eleven o'clock last Tuesday night. When discovered it had gained such headway that it was impossible to save the structure or its contents. By the fire Mr. Adams loses three horses, a cow, hay, &c. The barn was nearly new. It was thought to be the work of an incendiary. Insured for $1000.

REPP'S HUMMOCK. That part of Quincy known as Rye Island, belonging to the estate of the late John J. Glover, was sold at auction on Wednesday last. It is quite a valuable property, and was bought by George F. Pinkham, Esq., for $1,320.

QUINCY LAND COMPANY. Several buildings are to be erected the present season on the land belonging to this Company, just east of the Wollaston depot. This is a delightful section, and the building sites are some of the finest in that vicinity. The new railroad, which is soon to be built, passes quite near, and the location is very desirable for a pleasant and convenient home.

THE ORATION ON DECEMBER DAY. In this town, it is to be delivered by Rev. Mr. Norton, pastor of the Second Congregational church.

MAY FESTIVAL. The Belknap Band will give a festival on May night in Wilder Hall, West Quincy. The orchestra, of which is to be a part, or all, of the funds necessary to enable those who compose the Band to appear in a new uniform and dress, which seems desirable. Yet in so doing they have in view the general interest and welfare of the community. Those who appreciate the excellent effects of having a fine body of musicians in our midst, who on all occasions discourse excellent music, composed by some of the best talent in the country, will most cordially lend to this enterprise their warmest sympathies and co-operation. A May festival is always popular, and this will be doubly so because of its being given by a well-disciplined band, when this festival is given it is hoped that our people will give it the most cordial welcome and support. It will not only present an opportunity to enjoy the felicity and pleasure which ever attend such occasions, if properly managed, but it will afford you the happy privilege of lending aid to an object, which in all features commands the highest respect, and appeals to the most generous impulses of our nature.

RUNAWAY. A horse, attached to a hay-rigging, standing in front of Mr. Wild's blacksmith's shop on Tuesday afternoon, became frightened and started on a run on the sidewalk, and when near Mr. Thomas Fernald's store, he came in contact with a stone post with such force as to throw him to the ground. He was secured before gaining time to do further mischief.

PERSONAL. The coal and wood business, which has been carried on so successfully in this town by Mr. Owen Adams, has been sold to Mr. Cyrus Patch, Mr. Adams retires from the business, and as will be seen by a card in to-day's paper, invites his old customers and friends to continue their patronage to his successor.

PRESENTATION. A social meeting of the Old Board of Engineers was held at the Central House, on Tuesday evening, when Chief Engineer, Washington M. French, Esq., who retires from the department on the 1st instant, was presented with a handsome and valuable gold-headed cane, which bore the following inscription:

PRESENTED TO
Chief Engineer Washington M. French,
BY THE Assistant Engineers of the Quincy Fire Department,
MAY 1ST, 1875.

The presentation was made in a very pleasing manner by Engineer George B. Pray. Speeches by the Engineers and some of the invited guests closed this part of the ceremony.

An excellent collection was partaken of by the party, prepared by "mine host" of the Central House.

BRAINTREE. General Sylvanus Thayer, of BRAINTREE, held a regular meeting on Friday night of last week, and passed a vote of thanks to the ladies, the BRAINTREE Brass Band and all others who contributed to aid them in their late Fair, the proceeds of which was for the charity fund of the Post.

About 1000 barrels of onions, it is estimated, remain unsold by the farmers in the vicinity of Newburyport. There are so many apples on hand that the farmers are putting them into the presses, and new cider is as cheap as in the fall.

WANTED. Send in your proposal if you want to be the Collector of taxes for the ensuing year. To-day is the last chance you will have. The Selectmen are waiting your offer. Bid often and live, the few minutes that remain.—See advertisement.

In 1775, Rhode, N. H., had a population of 148, and raised 54 minutes men in its hours.

A Large Fire.

A little before nine o'clock on Saturday evening last, fire was discovered in the extensive flour and grain establishment of Joseph Loud & Co., situated near the railroad depot in the centre of Quincy. When first discovered it appeared issuing from the west corner of the building, where the hay and straw were stored, and before the fire department arrived, ready for service, the flames had spread nearly throughout the building, and their streams were of little avail in checking the progress of the flames.

The heavy iron safe in the counting-room, containing books, papers etc., was removed during the fire, and some twenty-five barrels of flour were saved, partly in a damaged condition. The rest of the stock with the building was destroyed.

Mr. William Rhines, who had charge of the building and grain, estimates the stock in store as follows:

3000 bushels of oats; 700 bushels of corn; 100 bushels of meal; 300 bushels of rye; 20 tons of shorts; 2 tons of feed; 150 barrels of flour; 14 bundles of English hay; 6 tons of straw; 2 elevators, scales, measures, chests, bags, counting-room furniture, &c., valued at about $7,000 which was insured for $5,000; the building in the Royal of Liverpool and Pennsylvania of Philadelphia. The building was valued at $4000; and insured for $1000 at Weymouth, and $1000 in the Holyoke of Salem. The cause of the fire is unknown, but it's thought to have caught from a spark from a passing train. Mr. Rhines passed through the building a few minutes past six, before closing for the night, and at that time everything appeared all right.

Seven persons were more or less injured while working at the fire. Mr. Peter Newcomb, cut one of his feet badly, from the toes to the instep with an axe; Geo. B. Pray had a nail forced through one of his hands, causing a severe wound; Warren W. Adams burned one of his hands while helping get out the safe.

Corn, oats, hay, &c., partly burned by the fire was sold at auction on Tuesday, by Jos. T. French, and have been nearly or quite all removed, together with the debris of the fire. We learn that the Company intends erecting immediately a new and improved building on the old site. They have continued the business for the present in their stable near the old stand.

APPOINTMENTS. The Selectmen have made the following appointments:

Special Police, Jefferson Morrill and Edward B. Souther.

Weighers of Coal, Joseph Hayden and Gardner H. Smith.

BRAINTREE ITEMS. The patronage of the public library is largely on the increase, 674 borrowers' cards having been issued up to the hour of closing on Saturday evening. The recent accession from the Mattapan Library is nearly all catalogued. When this work is completed, and some 125 books now being rebound, are returned, the new printed catalogue will be issued. This document and the author.

A great desideratum, and one which will be thoroughly appreciated by the travelling public, is the establishment of a restaurant at the railroad station. It is to be in a small room, opening from the ladies' room, and is to be engineered by a well-known conductor.

The Belknap Band visited this part of town on Monday evening last, and after playing some fine music were entertained by P. McDonald, Esq., on School street, and Messrs. H. P. Abbott and Joseph W. Lombard, in the centre of the town. Those who had the good fortune to hear them are prodigal in their praise of the fine music rendered, and perhaps at no time may we hear them again in our midst.

April 23, arrived schooner Emeline McLain, Capt. L. P. Young, from Philadelphia, with Lyken's Valley coal to D. Howard Bliss.

April 26th, sailed schooner Emeline McLain, Capt. L. P. Young, for Philadelphia with Granite from Henry Barker & Sons.

A lady of Boston Highlands dissected a pin-cushion of ordinary size a short time ago, which had been in use twelve years; and she found in it 619 whole needles, besides several broken ones. She often wondered what became of her needles.

The Pittsfield Eagle says a wealthy citizen of that town has paid $10,000 in hush-money during the last two years, rather than be involved in a public scandal, though entirely innocent of wrongdoing. The parties who have bled him are a man and a woman.

A Brazilian lady is creating a great sensation in Paris. She has a yellow carriage, and the wheel hubs are solid gold. The servants connected with the turnout number four—two in the box and two in the rumble. The harness is gold tipped, and the horses are thorough breeds.

A monument to the memory of the late Hon. Oakes Ames is to be erected by the United Pacific Railroad Co., at the summit of the road in the Sierra mountains, in recognition of his eminent services in carrying through that grand enterprise. It will probably be in the form of an arch, spanning the road at the town of Sherman.

The Imperial dogs and cats, which are kept for the purpose of destroying rats and mice in the Imperial stalls and stores in the German Empire, are fed at an expense of twelve thousand five hundred thalers a year.

The crown of England, as used by Queen Victoria, was made by those celebrated London Jewellers, Rundell and Bridge, in 1838, principally with jewels taken from old crowns. It contains one large sapphire, one large ruby, eleven emeralds, sixteen sapphires, four rubies, 1,364 brilliants, 1,273 rose diamonds, 147 other diamonds, 277 pearls.

The stock of a Nevada mine which is $80,500 in debt and has not yet produced one dollar, is selling at the rate of an aggregate valuation of $60,000,000.

For the Patriot.

Memorial Day.

Memorial day is drawing near and I hope that all of our patriotic citizens will render freely all possible assistance to Post 88, G. A. R. I understand that they are making their arrangements for the usual observance of the day, and that the Rev. Mr. Kelly, will officiate as Chaplain of the day and Rev. Edward Norton will deliver the oration. Also that our Municipal Officers and the Fire Department have received an invitation to participate in the afternoon parade.

Hoping that all will respond to this call, as did the heroes to their country's call, whose deeds we commemorate on Memorial Day, I remain, AMICUS.

MURRAY'S CIRCUS. On Friday of next week, we cordially invite delegations from all surrounding towns to visit the great show given in Quincy. On that day and evening John H. Murray's circus gives two performances in this town. Mr. Murray, although young, is a veteran in the ring. He has worked himself up from a subordinate position to the position of one of the best paying circus concerns now on the road. He draws round no cages of puny animals, advertises no menagerie, but has a good square, straight and circus performance, and on this and on his hand he lavishes money with an unsparring hand. As a result, Mr. Murray's circus is above competition.

How eagerly the little folks look forward to the time when "the circus" will arrive. With what feeling of admiration they gaze upon the gaudy posters, or watch, awe-stricken, as the huge tent is reared, while their minds are filled with pleasurable anticipations of the wonderful riding, leaping, turnings and twistings which they shall ere long witness within its canvas walls. We always perceive a lively sympathy with the feelings of children, and rejoice with them when the season for circuses and other travelling shows draws near, for the memory of our own youthful days, when a good circus was like a glimpse of fairy land, is still fresh and green.

DISTRICT COURT. The following cases were before the District Court in this town, on last:

H. Lannergan, Chas. Fairbanks, Geo. Patney, Thos. Cushing, and John Eagan, all of Weymouth, were brought into court on Monday, for being drunk.—They all paid their fine of $3 and costs, with the exception of Eagan, who was committed.

Henry Cottonduck of Quincy, was also one of those who imbibed some of the tangle-foot, which was the cause of his having an introduction to his Honor.—He was fined $3 and costs.

Benjamin Dyer of Weymouth, was fined $3 and costs for being drunk, and in default was committed.

Andrew Varney, Jr., of Quincy, for committing an assault on George Joy, was fined one cent and costs.

Thomas Ward of Weymouth, a regular customer before the court, was committed for being a vagrant, and re-arrested, and committed to the House of Correction for two months in the House of Correction was imposed.

Timothy Brosnihan of Quincy, for committing an assault on Thomas Dolan. The offence not being very aggravated, and Dolan's temper had been subsided, he requested the Court to be as lenient as possible. Brosnihan was ordered to pay the costs, and was discharged.

Charles H. Drake of Stoughton, was arrested for peddling shoe tools in Weymouth without a license. For this offence he was fined $50 and costs, from which sentence he appealed to the Superior Court.

Letter from San Francisco.

The Twin Peaks—a mountain or rather a double point of a range of mountains, in the immediate suburbs is about 1200 feet high, and many others around are nearly as high, covered with deep grass and beautiful flowers to the very top. Keep a little below the summit, get out of the breeze, and lie down in the bright sunshine listen to birds below, above and around; you, drink in the aroma of the fresh herbage and flowers, or look at the glorious prospect right before you. The bay for more than 100 miles, with its back ground of mountains, hazy in the distance, the surrounding hills—the city—the beautiful valleys and mountain slopes covered with cattle, farms, gardens, &c. Is not this a situation to inspire any soul, however clouded. Having had your sun bath, and your concert, and your feast of soul, ascend to the Peak again, 'tis not barren, nor sharp, nor rocky, but velvety green grass and herbage; even here, take a breath of that keen air and now look at the prospect on the other side. Gorges of hills, with beautiful valleys and slopes of green, many of them cultivated to the very top. There where they cluster closely round a little lake, is the City Reservoir; it seems away down from here but in reality 'tis higher than the highest houses on the city hills.

On the slope of a hill near by is a splendid palace-like building with gardens and cultivated land; that is a Catholic College. As you walk down the hill, between the summit look, there is the sea, the broad Pacific, and let your imagination carry you 1000 miles over its shiny surface.

To-day we took a trip across the bay to "San Celito," passed through the Golden Gate to the hills on the other side. The mountain slopes here are all green grass. You can traverse them in all directions that their steepness will permit, at every few steps you take, the prospect enlarges and changes and becomes more interesting, when you reach the top unexpected prospects break on you. What appeared to be mainland, proves to be an island; creeks, valleys and bays appear, hollows and cañons between the hills of surprising verdure, and beauty. Cottages and farms and cattle in little cozy places, shut out from all the world as it were, but this is the second horse he has lost from the same cause the present spring.

The wind got high indeed on Mount Washington, April the 10th, when it careered at the rate of 125 miles an hour. Canadians are about to utilize milk-wood, by getting India-rubber from it.

ASSESSORS' NOTICE! To the Inhabitants and all other Persons liable to pay Taxes in the Town of Quincy: The Assessors of the Town of Quincy, hereby give notice to the Inhabitants of said Town, and all other Persons liable to pay Taxes therein, that they will be at the Office of the Selectmen, every SATURDAY in May, and the first SATURDAY in June from 1 to 5 o'clock P. M., and from May 24th, until June 5th, every day, Sundays excepted, from 7 1/2 to 9 1/2 A. M., to receive the valuation of Estates; and all persons liable to be taxed in said Town, are hereby required to bring in at said Office, a true and correct schedule of the Real and Personal Estates, for which they are liable to pay Taxes. Persons holding estates in trust, are requested to furnish the Assessors with statements in relation to such estates. When estates of persons deceased have been divided during the past year, or have changed hands from other causes, the executor or administrator is required to give notice of such change. In default of such notice he will be held responsible for the tax assessed. Any person bringing in a list of his taxable property will be assessed upon the valuation thereof, and any one neglecting to furnish the Assessors with a list, within the time above specified, will be at a disadvantage, as the Assessors be assessed according to the laws of the Commonwealth.

All persons will take notice that statements of personal property must be in writing and subscribed under oath before one of the Assessors, at their Office, on or before the 5th day of June; and that the personal property of all taxable persons must be estimated; notwithstanding a verbal statement or informal written communication to any one or more of the Assessors.

When a person has failed to bring in a list or a schedule of all his taxable property, in conformity to this notice, no statement of a tax assessed upon such person for such property can be granted, unless such tax exceeds by more than fifty per centum the amount which would have been assessed to that person on personal estate.

ENGLISH FELLOWS, of WILLIAM A. HODGES, of Quincy, May 1, 1875.

THE HALIFAX MURDERER. Wm. E. Sturtevant, it is to be hung May 7th. His physical condition is as good as could be expected in the case of any one so long incarcerated under sentence of death, while his spiritual state is of rather a stoical nature. His mind is clear, and his time is largely occupied in the reading of works containing valuable information, and the analysis of questions of more than ordinary interest. He persists that he will never make a confession.

Summary of News.

Do our retailers remember that unless their weights and measures are sealed they cannot collect a bill for anything sold by them?

Mr. Parker, of Lancaster, N. H., has a trout in a cistern in the kitchen at his house 19 inches in length and weighing about 3 pounds. It is so tame that it will eat from a person's hand.

Dudley Adams, Grand Master of the National Grange, has purchased 600 acres of land in Florida with a view to planting an orange farm.

One hundred years ago the news of the battle of Lexington was carried to Philadelphia in six days, and that was thought to be quick work.

The butter markets at St. Albans, Vt., Tuesday, had a downward tendency, prices ranging from 15 to 23 cents.

The grounds of the Weymouth Agricultural Society have been improved the last fall and winter at an expense of $1300.

A large pineapple crop is predicted in Florida this year.

Charles Abbott, who lives at the Iron Works in Concord, N. H., and is 75 years of age, has read the Bible through 42 times, and all the reading was done on Sundays. He is a Universalist.

Workmen at East Braintree have found what is thought to be the remains of an Indian princess.

Between fifteen and eighteen inches of snow fell on the line of the Portland & Ogdensburg Railroad, between John St. and Johnsons, Vt., on Friday of last week.

Justin Ripley, of Weymouth, claims the highest egg on record. It measured six and a quarter inches by eight, and weighed a quarter of a pound.

Hon. Albert Fearing, President, and Mr. Albert Fearing, President, of the Hingham Agricultural and Horticultural Society, since its organization, have resigned.

The sealers of weights and measures, at Lynn, has measured the yard sticks in 240 establishments. In some stores sixteen of the twenty-six were too long.—None were too short.

Mrs. Alvah Raymond, of Weymouth, was obliged to kill a valuable horse affected with the glanders, a few days ago.—This is the second horse he has lost from the same cause the present spring.

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, MAY 8, 1875.

"Born to do Master, of no Sect are We."

Short communications and items of news earnestly solicited from friends and patrons. Anonymous communications are not published.

COLLECTOR. The Selectmen have accepted the proposal of Mr. George H. Locke, to collect the taxes, the present year, in this town, at the rate of 2-1/2 mills on the dollar, which is just one-half the rate Mr. Baxter received last year, which was five mills. Mr. Locke is a good collector and we are sorry he is not to be paid better.

HARD AT IT. The Assessors have already commenced their labors and have found it pretty cold work. They were obliged to put gloves on to keep their fingers from becoming too stiff to write.

TRAMPS. Washington M. French, Esq., who has charge of the travelling poor, has lodged 22 in the Lock-up during the past month. Quite a good tavern, and well patronized. Town of Milton has done rather a larger business, having furnished 263 tramps with food and lodgings at the town farm in April.

GOLDEN WEDDING. On Saturday, May 16th, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Littlefield and Mr. and Mrs. Charles May, will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding, (which took place in Quincy Mass., May 16th, 1825) by receiving their friends at the residence of Mr. Samuel Littlefield, Granite Place, East Milton. The "brides" were sisters, and the firm of Littlefield & May, Carriage Manufacturers, Quincy, Mass., was well known fifty years ago.

ACCIDENT. A little daughter of the Rev. John D. Wells met with a slight accident on Monday last. She was standing in the Square near where the circus bills were posted, when a horse became unmanageable, and before the driver could control the animal, he had knocked her down and the wheels passed over her limbs.

PROPOSALS. It will be seen by our advertising columns that proposals are wanted for filling and grading the schoolyard at Wollaston; also, for building a fence around the same, and for painting the Washington school house.

LICENSES. The Selectmen of Quincy have held a meeting and voted to grant licenses under the new license law.

GOOD THING. The heavy rain on Thursday night and yesterday made the grass in this vicinity leap with joy. The fields are beginning to look quite green and beautiful. Not a blossom have we seen as yet upon the trees; perhaps another week may produce some.

LOCATED. It will be seen by a card in our columns to-day, that Col. Parker, the new Superintendent of Schools, has taken an office with John Q. Adams, Esq., where he can be found at certain hours.

FAIR. The St. John's Catholic society of this town, contemplate holding a fair in the basement of their church on School street. This fair will open on the 17th of this month, and entertainments are to be given each evening by the organist, Mr. John McGrath.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT. Last Friday evening, as Miss Townsend of Rock Island, was driving, her horse became frightened near the residence of Mr. John A. Newcomb, on Hancock street, by the breaking of the whiffletree, and ran furiously. As she was passing the carriage manufactory of Tirrell & Sons, the reins parted and by this means Miss Townsend lost control of the animal. The rein she held in her hand guided him to the sidewalk where the wagon struck with great violence against a stone post near Mr. C. P. Tirrell's residence. This threw the lady out of the wagon, which was a covered one, and she fell on the curbstone, about twenty feet from where the carriage struck. In her fall she hit the edge of the curbstone, cutting a very severe and ugly looking gash on the left side of her nose, besides receiving other bad bruises.

She was taken into Mr. Quincy Tirrell's house, and medical aid was called, and everything was done to allay her sufferings. It is said that she displayed great fortitude, not even losing her consciousness at the time of her fall.

About two hours after the accident she was conveyed to her home, and we learn that she is doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

HOME AGAIN. Mr. P. McGrath and son arrived at their home on Wednesday last, in excellent health, after a long and tedious jaunt of four weeks on the road from California. Mr. McGrath's letters have been read with much interest, and we hope he will continue his pleasing descriptions of the many places he has visited on his homeward trip.

DISTRICT COURT. There appears to be as much crime in East Norfolk District now, as at anytime for several years, still the daily court sessions in this place are short, and but few persons are brought to the bar of justice, and those come from Weymouth. Probably many of our readers know why this is,—the State Constables have gone up "Salt river."

James Hoochman, of Weymouth, was fined $5 and costs for larceny. For non-payment of fine he was committed to jail.

AUCTION. A large sale of horses, carriages, &c., by auction will take place at the stable of W. M. French, Esq., (by permission) on Saturday next, at 11 o'clock A. M. E. V. R. Reed, Auctioneer. The particulars of which can be learned by the posters, which will be distributed on Monday.

CAUTIONARY. Deek thinks that the immoderate indulgence in smelts, at this season of the year, by many of our citizens, in some instances may result in specious-lambous combustion.

ARRIVAL. Schooner M. B. Oakes, arrived at the Point recently with a cargo of wood for Cyrus Patch.

Braintree.

FIRE. Last Saturday evening, about nine o'clock, a barn belonging to the estate of the late Abel Holbrook, at the south part of the town, was discovered to be on fire. Engines 1 and 2, and Hook and Ladder Co. of Braintree, and the Tiger and Granite engines from Quincy were promptly on the spot, but notwithstanding their efforts, the building and about two tons of hay were soon destroyed.

Mr. George White occupied the barn, and kept two or three cows there. The incendiary was humane enough to remove the cows before setting the fire, as they were found the next morning secured to a fence a short distance from the premises. This is the second time Mr. White has met with loss by fire within a few months; the first being the loss at the saw-mill owned by him, near the Granite road.

TOWN MEETING on Monday afternoon, present three reporters from Boston, and a number of people from the south part of the town. Result of the meeting, the choosing of a Moderator, the report of a committee or two, and a vote to dissolve. "The maintain labored and brought forth a mouse."

Mr. Charles Minchin, whilst driving from the south towards the north part of the town, on Monday morning, met with an (almost fatal) accident. His horse was harnessed in such a manner as to bring him too near the whiffletree—became frightened, and in turning a short corner at the house of Mr. S. S. French, Mr. Minchin was thrown violently against the horse and thence to the ground. He was taken into the house of Mr. F. in an insensible state, but afterwards was able to walk home. At the time of the accident, a large dog, belonging to Mr. French, became furious, and was inclined to attack Mr. Minchin as he lay upon the ground, to prevent which, Mr. George French, after being very severely bitten upon the hand by the dog, was obliged to use a club upon the animal so decidedly as to kill him. Mr. Minchin is doing well, and it is hoped that Mr. French will soon have the use of his hand.

Our people are beginning to appreciate the convenience of procuring the Quincy Patriot, at the store of Mr. F. W. Parks, in the South part of the town.

Rev. Mr. Livesey, formerly of Wareham, has been appointed by the Providence Methodist Conference, as Pastor of the M. E. Church at South Braintree.

Grand Army of Republic.

At a regular meeting of Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R. held Tuesday evening, May 4th, it was unanimously voted that as Henry H. Faxon, Esq. has kindly offered the use of Temperance Hall to our Post for the ensuing year, rent free, therefore,

Resolved,—That for this generous offer on his part, we, the comrades of Paul Revere Post 88, do hereby tender to him our heartfelt thanks for his liberality to us in this regard, assuring him that this favor to us is duly appreciated and will be kindly remembered.

Per order, WM. EMERSON, Com.

DRUNKENNESS. The "new, judicious and stringent license law" went into operation on Saturday last, and never were there more drunken people about our streets than there has been the past week. On Tuesday noon there were twelve intoxicated persons in the Square at one time.

Do not let this new law become a disgrace to our people for want of enforcement. Let those who helped enact it do something to enforce it, or else all the good citizens of Massachusetts will become more disgusted with it, than they did with the old prohibitory law.

NEW HOTEL. The residence owned by Dr. Roundy and recently occupied by Mr. Dowse, on Quincy Avenue, has been leased for a hotel, by the proprietor of the Hanover House, Hanover.

PROBATE COURT. The next session of this court will be held at the Court Room in this place, on Wednesday next.

CLOTHING. Those of our readers who visit the city for clothing will do well to call at the clothing establishment of Geo. H. Lane & Co., in Dock Square. They have not only a large assortment, but their goods are well made and warranted to give good satisfaction. Their stock is adapted not only for adults, but excellent suits for children can be found at very reasonable prices. See their card in our columns.

EXECUTED. William H. Sturtevant, the Halifax murderer was executed yesterday. He has maintained throughout a stolid indifference and laughed and joked with his keepers as if he did not realize his coming doom. As he had threatened suicide his cell was changed and a double watch placed over him.

The Selectmen of Medway, held their regular meeting Monday, when the subject of granting liquor licenses was considered. The clergymen of the town were present, with numerous signed remonstrances. The applicants for licenses—the innkeepers—were absent, and both sides were heard, but the Selectmen concluded to wait a fortnight before giving a decision.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH. Preaching at 10-1-2 A. M. by the Pastor, Rev. D. D. Sherman. Sabbath School and Bible Class 11-1-2 A. M. Sermon by the Pastor at 1-1-2 P. M. Subject, Crime, its Cause and Cure.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH. Sunday School at 10 A. M. Preaching 2-1-2 P. M. by Rev. G. H. Emerson, D. D. Boston.

CHRIST CHURCH. Services to-morrow at 10-30 A. M. Sunday School at 3 P. M. Service at 4 P. M.

FIRST CHURCH. Sunday School at 9-30. Morning Service at 10-30. Vespers at 7-30. The Minister of the Church will conduct the services.

METHODIST CHURCH. Preaching in the Church at West Quincy to-morrow at 10-1-2 A. M. by Rev. D. D. Sherman. D. D. of Malden. He will also preach in the Methodist Church Wollaston Heights at 3 P. M., and administer the Sacrament. At West Quincy the usual Quarterly Social meeting will be held in the Vestry at 9 o'clock A. M. Preaching at 7 P. M. by the Pastor.

Fires in Quincy.

We have been furnished with the following list of fires in Quincy, for the year ending May 1st, 1875, by Capt. Jos. M. Glover, of the Hook and Ladder Company. The estimated loss is $41,600, which is a larger amount than in any former year, for the last twenty—1874, May 30.—A dwelling house, owned by P. Garvin on Summer street.—Cause accidental. Loss estimated at $1500.

June 12.—Boot manufactory owned by the heirs of Wyman Abercomb, on Washington street. Cause, accidental.—Loss estimated at $15,000.

June 22.—Blacksmith shop, owned by Granite Railway Company, West Quincy. Cause, incendiary. Loss $600.

Sept. 16.—Unoccupied store, owned by Mrs. George Newcomb, on Quincy Avenue. Cause incendiary. Loss $200.

Oct. 9.—House and barn, owned by W. F. Lakin, at Point Holes. Cause, incendiary. Loss, $3500.

Nov. 1.—Stable of Horace Jenkins on Hancock street. Cause, incendiary.—Loss $200.

Dec. 26.—House owned by Thomas Carroll, on Phipps street. Cause, accidental. Loss $150.

1875, March 1.—House owned by Jarvis, on Lincoln Avenue. Cause, incendiary. Loss $4,000.

April 8.—Stables, belonging to Horse Railway Company, on Hancock street.—Cause, incendiary. Loss $3500.

April 24.—Store of Joseph Loud & Co., near depot. Cause, unknown. Loss $11,000.

ORGANIZED. The new board of Engineers of the Fire Department, held a meeting on Saturday evening last, and organized by the choice of Edward A. Spear as Chief, and James H. Elocak as Clerk. Mr. Spear has many years experience with the Fire Department of Quincy, and we believe will fill his new position with credit to himself and honor to the town.

GRANITE. The annual meeting of the Granite Engine Company, of West Quincy, was held on Monday evening last, and the following officers were chosen to serve the ensuing year:—
Foreman,—John S. Farrell.
1st Assistant,—John Ryan.
2d Assistant,—William Glenon.
Clerk,—Thomas Connors.
Treasurer,—John S. Farrell.
Steward,—Jeremiah Lyons.
Standing Committee,—Michael Geary, John Colton, Steven Little.
Suction Hosemen,—William Shea, Bartholomew Flaherty, James Flaherty.
Leading Hosemen,—Thomas O'Brien, Patrick Burke, Ois Thayer, James Keenan, John Hetherson, Patrick Sullivan.

TIGER. At the annual meeting of the Tiger Engine Company, held on Monday evening last, the following Officers were elected for the ensuing year:—
Foreman,—George H. Osborn.
1st Assistant,—W. C. Baker.
2d Assistant,—Thos. H. Williams.
Clerk,—R. J. Williams.
Treasurer,—J. S. Hanson.
Suction Hosemen,—Lewis McIntire, Edward S. Hanson, Charles Cummings and John Tate.
Leading Hosemen,—Lewis Frederick, John S. Hanson, R. J. Williams, Herbert French, Joseph N. Walsh and Robert Wadmore.
Steward,—Warren Dunbar.
Standing Committee,—Lewis McIntire, David Gunville and Jonathan Tanner.

HOOKE AND LADDER. At a meeting of the Hook and Ladder Company held on Monday evening last, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—
Foreman,—Joseph M. Glover.
Assistant,—John Q. Bent.
Clerk,—John W. Hersey.
The meeting then adjourned one fortnight, at which time the other required officers will be elected.

FIRE. The large fire noticed from our village on Saturday evening last, was caused by the burning of a barn in Braintree. The particulars of the same will be found in our Braintree correspondence. They have recently purchased a smart engine for Braintree and the boys like to see it play. The engine who set the fire, it is thought belongs to the "Society for the prevention of cruelty to Animals," as he took pains to remove the cows from the building and to tie them to a fence, a safe distance off, before playing the torch.

One of our industrious citizens advertises in a city daily for painters, offering good wages, but says:—"I will hire no one who drinks more rum than myself."

Summary of News.
About 130,000 bushels of peanuts are annually brought to Boston.

It is estimated that the amusements of New York cost three and a half million dollars last year.

The prospect for the wheat crop in Tennessee, Kentucky and Ohio is said to be excellent.

The city of Brooklyn is said to have two hundred and fifty-four churches and needs another one.

The most popular books of late have been dictionaries and first-class spellers.

Thirty-eight vessels are on their way from the East Indies to Boston.

The decrease of the public debt during the past month was two and one-third million dollars.

INSURANCE! O what a good thing insurance is! It matters not whether it is upon your building or furniture; against accident, or upon your life. When the crash comes, when the wind of good luck does, how many hearts nearly ready to break have been encouraged to go forward; and but for the help they have received from good and responsible companies, would have been miserable to say the least.

But we propose at this time to speak more particularly of life insurance.—Nothing gives a widow with a family more strength to go forward and fight her way through the dreary, jostling world, when the paternal head has been stricken down, then a good policy in one of the first-class life insurance companies of the present day.

There are many companies at the present time, and they are a good deal like the potatoes in our cellars. Some are rotten and corrupt, and the least you have to do with them the better! Others are bright and handsome, and the more you examine them the better you like them. So it is with a good life insurance company. We, therefore, would advise all who have not already done so, to see to this matter at once, and take out a policy in some reliable company.

The thirtieth annual report of the New York Life Insurance Company will be found in our columns to-day; and we are pleased to say that it is one of the most flourishing and reliable companies in the United States. Messrs. Stocking & Austin, Agents in Boston, are well known to many of our readers, and from our own personal acquaintance of many years, we can say they are worthy the respect and confidence of our readers.

SPELLING MATCH. There was a spelling match at East Milton, on Thursday evening,—words pronounced by Mr. Seth Dewing, Jr. The first prize was taken by Miss Mary Pennington; the second prize by Walter Babcock.

LICENSE ITEMS. Eleven hundred citizens of Hyde Park have petitioned the selectmen that no license should be granted for the sale of liquor. The selectmen have decided to charge $500 for a license under the fourth class in the local option law. Each and all of the six druggists in town will receive licenses if applied for. The other dealers are considerably astonished at the decision and the charge. The six druggists in town have held a meeting and resolved not to pay $500 apiece for a license, but to sell for "medicinal purpose only."

How summer complaints will rage in Hyde Park.

The Springfield Board of Aldermen has fixed the rates for licenses at $250 and $400 each, according to the class.

Licenses in Taunton, Mass., have been fixed at $200 for the first class, $100 for the second class, $75 for third class, $100 for fourth class, and $75 for fifth class.

The Board of Aldermen of Fall River have voted to grant licenses to wholesale dealers for $200 and all other classes at $100 per annum.

South Adams charges $250, $250, $150 and $100 for licenses.

The Selectmen of Attleboro, decline to grant licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors. Heverill has decided to grant but one license for the sale of liquor. That is to be of the fourth class, and $500 to be charged therefor.

Poetry.
For the Patriot.
To —
In memory, dear, true friendships we hold,
And the years come and pass away;
And in the days when we grow old,
Let not our younger friendships know decay.
Forget them not, let them remembered be,
They make life's path more bright and fair;
Time should but strengthen, never sever,
Kept here on earth, in heaven they'll last for ever.
Wollaston Heights, May, 3, 1875.

Agricultural, &c.
The Flower-Garden.
Let the home be brightened by a flower garden, if it be but three feet square. In the village or on the farm, however, there can usually be a more liberal allotment than this, for the flower garden, and unless the home has attained to the magnificence of "grounds" cared for by a professional gardener, the flowers will very properly be the charge of the mother and daughters of the house. And a happy change it is, in spite of summer heat and summer weeds.

It is time now to be making preparations for the flower-garden. If the space for flowers is limited, the favorites must be decided upon and such are of slower growth may be started in small boxes or pots in the sunny windows. It is especially desirable to have asters, phlox, stocks and pansies ready for transplanting as soon as all danger of frost is past, and the earth thoroughly warm and mellowed. If time and space for flowers are both limited we should select but few kinds of annuals, as these require most labor in planting and transplanting. Among the indispensable ones are mignonette and sweet alyssum which are very apt to look for their own perpetuity, by freely sowing their seeds as fast as they are ripened. We should certainly make a place for sweet peas, which require good soil and four-inch planting, and for the running nasturtiums, whose generosity and brilliancy make them a constant delight. Morning-glories, too, shall have two or three places, all their own, an old tree trunk or some porches to cover with their pretty foliage and their delicate beautiful blossoms. If possible, one corner shall be saved for the single, scarlet poppy, for its cheerfulness, and for the delight of the children who can make such fine ladies and such pretty tea-sets, from the blossoms and the seed vessels. Of the vines, cypress and enary and thunbergia are all desirable, but "the one altogether lovely" is the mandarin, with its most graceful foliage, its beautiful white, purple or pink flowers. And this is not merely an annual, but planted in pots or hanging baskets, is beautiful for two or three years, sending up new shoots as fast as the old ones fall.

Along with these annuals we should want some scarlet geraniums, heliotropes and tea roses, and if there is a shady spot in the garden, some fuchsias.—Northampton Journal.

Soot as Manure.
Soot is said, by those who ought to know, to be worth nearly as much as guano. On the grass plot, or in the flower or fruit garden, its effects, when properly applied, are very marked. When mixed with water and sprinkled over vines it seems to have the effect of keeping off insects of various kinds. On flowers it has the effect to intensify their colors. It is not to be found in any great abundance to be sure, but more or less of it collects in the chimneys and stove pipes of almost every dwelling, and, small as the quantity is, it is worth saving and applying to plants. Instead of burning out foul chimneys, why not sweep them out and save the soot always to be found in them. The habit of saving all the fertilizing materials is a good one to fall into, and they amount to a great deal in the course of the year.—Massachusetts Ploughman.

Fertilizers. Among the numerous fertilizers now before the public, Bradley's Super-phosphate of Lime presents large claims to public favor. It cannot be classed with the many catch-penny compounds, which are daily forced upon the market and possessing no virtue.—But it is a sterling article, which has stood the test of years and has received the highest testimonials from scientific and practical agriculturists.—Massachusetts Ploughman.

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, MAY 22, 1875.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

Short communications and items of news earnestly solicited from friends and patrons.

Anonymous communications are not published.

Memorial Day.

The graves of the deceased heroes of the late war, will be decorated on Saturday next, May 29, with appropriate ceremonies, under the direction of Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R., of this town. The Post will assemble at Lyceum Hall, at 7 o'clock, A. M., and the details will proceed there without parade; to National Soldiers' Home, Mt. Wollaston and Old Cemeteries, where they will carefully, but informally, place flowers upon every spot known as the resting place of a deceased soldier or sailor.

The Post will form at 10 o'clock, A. M., and accompanied by the Belknap Band, proceed up Hancock and School streets to the Cemeteries at West Quincy, where they will decorate the several graves of our fallen comrades, and will return by Granite street to Lyceum Hall, where they will be dismissed.

At 1 o'clock in the afternoon, the Post will form in front of the Town Hall, with invited guests, and proceed thence to the soldiers and sailors' monument in the Mount Wollaston Cemetery, where they will be decorated by the Post with brief but touching and impressive service; after which the procession will march to the Town Hall, where appropriate exercises in commemoration of the day will take place.

An oration will be delivered by Rev. Edward Norton. The singing will be conducted by W. W. Bemis, of Wollaston Heights.

ACCIDENT. Mr. Hosea B. Ellis and his mother met with quite a serious accident on Saturday evening last, while riding on Water street. They were approaching the railroad crossing near the Quincy Adams station, as the cars were heard coming. They stopped, the horse was closed, and the train passed. Chas. Johnson, the lad who tends the crossing, opened the bar on the east side of the track, and fastened it, and then went to the west side unloosened it, and swung it back; it did not catch in the staple but moved back over the road. Mr. Ellis' horse started as the bar was opened, and was struck by it on the side of the head, as it came across the second time, which so startled him, that he became unmanageable, and before Mr. E. could stop the animal, the bar had taken the top of the buggy off, and thrown its occupants backwards to the ground.

THE GREAT HIPPODROME. P. T. Barnum, Esq., extends a general invitation to our citizens, to visit his grand Hippodrome, which will be in Boston a few days longer. It is said to surpass, in splendor and magnificence, his elaborate present of last year. Read his advertisement and do not fail to visit the great Hippodrome.

MAIL FAILURES. "If we should ever ask a favor of the Government of the United States, which we hope we shall not have to do—the burden of our petition will be that our mail facilities may be improved. In talking with our friend Deputy Sheriff Coombs the other day, he said that the Dedham Transcript did not reach West Medway until Monday, and sometimes Tuesday. The same complaint comes to us from Mr. Jabez Weatherbee, at Concord, N. H., where they also have two mails daily from Boston, and we do not know how many other subscribers are served in the same manner. To take a newspaper and receive it two days late, is a trial of patience that will not be borne long, and as we are probably not alone in this matter, we ask our brethren of the country press to help us "kick up a dust" about it. In all this broad land, there is not a more conspicuous hump than the Boston Post Office Department—it being conducted more with a view to the laziness and luxury of the employees than to any approach of public business."

The above is from the Dedham Transcript and we fully endorse all our brother says about the irregularities of the mails. Subscribers in this and adjoining counties are much annoyed at not receiving the PATRIOT, which leaves Quincy in Friday night's mail, until Monday, and often late in the week.

The Suffolk County Journal, in recent issue, addressed an article to Postmaster Burt, closing with a request that he tighten up the screws, as these complaints were awfully annoying, and did not reflect any credit to the management of affairs at the Boston Post Office.

On the same day, John Lyons, of Quincy, was arrested by Constable Chas. N. Hunt, for an assault on George W. Billings. It appeared from the evidence that Lyons went to Mr. Billings' residence to collect some money due him for labor, and not getting it,—having been after it several times previous,—he became abusive and Mr. Billings attempted to put him off the premises, but did not succeed very well, if we could judge by the testimony. Mr. Billings' face was badly scarred, and he appeared much as if he had been "through the war." Mr. Lyons was found guilty, and ordered to the House of Correction for three months. From which sentence he appealed and was ordered to give bonds in the sum of $200 for his appearance before the Superior Court on the first Monday of September next.

S. W. Jenkins, proprietor of the Squantum Beach House, was arrested by officers of the State detective force and fined $12 and cost for having in his possession one dozen smelts.

His clerk, George L. Odiorne, was also arrested for having in his possession eight dozen smelts. He pleaded not guilty, and was held in $100 for bail, to appear in Court on Monday next. Jenkins is a member of the Angler's Association, and the warrant was issued upon information received by some of its members; which looks as if they intended to enforce the law at all hazards.

For the Quincy Patriot.

West Quincy.

The ladies of West Quincy "Social Aid Society," held their last public entertainment for the season, on the 18th and 19th inst., in the vestry of the Methodist Church.

Both evenings were unpropitious as to weather, which, with the financial influences, rendered the attendance less than the merits of the occasion deserved, but the ladies looked more for a social, pleasant gathering with their friends, than the simple object of money raising, and in this respect, they were not disappointed. The tables were amply supplied for all who wished, with chowders, coffee, and cream and other delicacies to meet the wants of the inner-man. But the best, and most attractive part of the occasion, was the Literary Entertainment; which was exhibited by a class of pupils, under the instruction of Mrs. Mary Dewing, a teacher of the Willard School. We understand they only presented the ordinary exercises of the school room, and this was not gotten up for display,—yet they evinced in recitation, singing, dialogues and reading, a system of training on the part of the teacher, and ability on the part of scholars not ordinarily to be met with, either in our city or country schools. To say all justice and truth would allow, might be a temptation to committees in other towns where they pay a larger premium for desired merit to worthy educators, than Quincy.

Certainly for the interest of our youth and children, the School Committee and Superintendent will look well to the laurels of our own town, that we may retain, and be amply supplied with such a class of teachers suitably compensated for their services. All those who were not present on that occasion failed of an entertainment which would have been of valuable service to them.

This Ladies' Association, which was formed two years ago last October, has done much for the cause of humanity and religion in this part of the town.—Much credit is due Mrs. Dewing, of President of the Society, and those faithful officers and friends who are associated in this cause of benevolence, for the success which has attended their efforts. According to the Treasurer's books, they have raised since their organization the sum of $1,246.64. They have expended towards the Church and its furniture, $1,214.87, leaving a balance of $31.77 in the treasury, towards prosecuting further objects of benevolence for improvement needed in this part of the town. May prosperity in the future, as in the past, attend all their efforts.

SPECTATOR.

THE GREAT HIPPODROME. P. T. Barnum, Esq., extends a general invitation to our citizens, to visit his grand Hippodrome, which will be in Boston a few days longer. It is said to surpass, in splendor and magnificence, his elaborate present of last year. Read his advertisement and do not fail to visit the great Hippodrome.

Curtain Fixtures, H. McGehee, of Cambridge; Steam Generators, D. Renshaw, of Hingham; Paper Boxes, James W. Turner, of Boston; Inkling Rollers, F. B. Allen, of Boston; Lining Pipe, M. Allen, of Natick; Darning Machines, S. O. Hosmer, of Boston; Tea and Coffee Press, J. B. Hutchinson, of Cambridge; Ladies' Paper Towel, J. H. Hatch, of Melrose.

CONCERT. Do not fail to visit the entertaining Concert, this evening, by the Hyers Sisters and their talented Troupe. Their entertainments are spoken of in the highest terms wherever they have performed. Last evening our citizens were highly pleased with their opening entertainment. Give them a crowded house to-night. It is hoped that they will favor us with one of their Sacred Concerts on Sunday evening, which have received the highest need of praise from the musical public. Tickets for this evening's entertainment may be obtained at Mr. John O. Holden's store.

FESTIVAL. The ladies connected with the Universalist Society of this town, propose holding a Fair and Strawberry Festival, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 22d, 23d, and 24th. The proceeds to be used for paying the debt of the Society. All friends of the Society are invited to lend their aid in this good work.

THE LICENSE LAW. By request of the Selectmen, we publish to-day, on our first page, the new license law passed by the Legislature this season. The Selectmen in this place intend that the law shall be in force, and it will be well for all interested to read it carefully.

QUICK TRIP. Arrived at Quincy Point May 20th, in a run of five days from Philadelphia, Schooner Elyne McLane, Capt. L. Young, with Melrose Valley crew, to L. Howard Bills.

OWING to the small appropriations made by Congress, the force of workmen employed at the United States Army in Springfield, is to be reduced one-half, July 1st.

SUMMARY OF NEWS.

An idea of the extent of the foreign fruit trade may be obtained from the fact that a single New York fruit firm imported last year 67,000 bunches of bananas.

They claim to have a man in Nova Scotia who is one hundred and seventeen years old, he having been born May 4th, 1758.

The total Sunday school membership in the United States is placed at 6,373,436; Connecticut, in proportion to her population, has the largest number of members.

The notes paid by the Bank of England for seven years past number about 94,000,000, weigh 112 tons and represent a value of 15,000 millions.

Thirty thousand rotary apple parers are made in a Leominster Mass. machine shop annually.

Ipwich has a by-law prohibiting the driving of a horse or ox through the town faster than six miles an hour.

The bill appropriating $1,300,000 for the Hoosac Tunnel has passed both branches.

Sturtevant left a plan for his monument (but no money) with a Wareham man. After this design it would cost about $30,000.

Manufacturing establishments in many parts of Connecticut are seriously embarrassed by the high price of coal.

Wollaston Heights.

MR. EDITOR:—We take it for granted that the public spirited people of Quincy are all interested in this end of the town, and would like to know what we are doing.

The building of the place is still progressing. The Land Associates show themselves able to push hard as the times grow hard—individuals also are building dwellings for themselves. The sound of the hammer is constantly heard in our midst. There are now seen houses in process of erection and we hear rumors of more to come. Fences are being built, and lots and streets graded. In the list of these improvements we are glad to see that the school house grounds are to be fenced and graded.

The Churches are alive also. The religious interest now manifested in the Baptist Church. The pastor, Brother Rowe, has worked faithfully during the winter and certainly deserves much credit for the way in which he has clung to and kept up his special services that have finally been crowned with an awakened interest in the church and the conversion of souls.

The M. E. Church is flourishing in its new Chapel. They have lately given Smith & Smith, the contract for grading their lot. Though they took the contract below the actual cost, they have done one of the nicest jobs of grading and sodding that Quincy can show. Mr. Whitman has set out shade trees around the lot and some shrubbery in it. The town has been improving the street in front of the Chapel. All these things combined make the corner of Beale street and Central Avenue, one of the nicest corners in Wollaston. In this Chapel the seats are free and a free gospel is preached to all.

BRAINTREE. Our provision dealer, Saunders, after trying business in the city of Boston, a short time, has returned and taken his old place of business again, and is now ready to supply the wants of his many friends, with all that pertains to his line of trade.

The friends of Mr. F. B. Parks and lady, surprised them on Monday evening, by a visit to their residence at South Braintree. The Braintree Brass Band were in attendance, the evening was spent with music, feasting, and a general good time. A large number were present and the happy couple were glad to receive their friends. On this, the 30th anniversary of their marriage.

The restaurant at the South depot is being repaired by the proprietor, conductor Haskins, and will be opened in a few days.

KID GLOVES. One of the finest imports of French Gloves, may be found at Cushman & Brooks's store, Temple Place, Boston, where they give complete list of the most elegant assortment of shades, and are sold at their usual popular prices. We refer the attention of the reader to their advertisement in our columns to-day.

$500.00 Reward!

THE above reward will be paid to any person who will furnish information sufficient to convict the person who set fire to any of the barns or other buildings that have been burned in Quincy the past year.

Also, the above reward will be paid for the discovery and conviction of any person guilty of setting fire to any building in the town of the value of $500.

Poetry.
For the Patriot.
About the Brantree Fire.
BY J. E. COLTON.
It was on the first day of May,
That GRANITE, number three,
Her Engineer and Foreman
Paid off the Company.
The members all had got their scrip,
And things were looking well;
But there arose a fire in Brantree,
And they rang the Granite bell.
Her rope was mangled—away she went;
You all well know her speed—
The Granite she is sure to be Around the place of need.
And up to the corners five,
The Union one she passed—
Our motto is: We come, we conquer;
The Granite won't be last.
The Union one, was drafting,
And loud her broken did clash;
The Tiger two, of Quincy,
She intended for to wash.
The Tigers, with their steady stroke,
The fun they did enjoy;
And they sent the water like a tide,
Into the Butcher Boy.
The Butcher Boy, then passed on,
A roaring like the sea;
But our gallant Foreman cheered us on,
And it passed through Granite three.
But the water very soon gave out,
Which did us much annoy,
For the cry arose from Company three:
"Let's suck the Butcher Boy!"
Success unto the Granite tube,
And shout for Quincy three;
Long live our her Volunteers,
Foreman and Company.
West Quincy.

Agricultural, &c.
Keep the Farm and Home Tidy.
Like other good things, the following good advice comes to the surface occasionally, and will bear repeating:—
"If you get a moment to spare, spruce up; put the gate on its hinges, put the little paint on the picket fence you built last year; trim up your door; make it cozy and inviting. Do not say you can find no time to attend to these things. The fact is, you have no right to be slovenly. It can do you no good, but, on the contrary, it will mar your peace, wound your self-respect and impair your credit. Then, by all means, spruce up a little at odd times, and at even times, too, for that matter. It will make you feel vastly better, and, may be, a trifle prouder of your property. Your wife and children will be made happier for it; your neighbors will be enriched, beautified and blessed by it; and your farm will be worth more money in the market, and of greater value to you at home, if you spruce up a little now and then."

Milk in Thunder Storms.
It is a little early to anticipate thunder storms of any great severity, but it will be interesting for dairymen to know how to guard their milk from souring when the thunder storms do come. Experiments recently tried in Sweden are said to prove that the effects of thunder storms can be avoided or counteracted by artificial heat in the dairy, the plan being simply to start a fire in the room where the milk is kept as soon as a thunder storm is seen approaching. The theory is that during the approach of such storms the atmosphere becomes loaded with moisture, and the damp, heavy air resting on the milk produces acidity and spoils it. The heat from a fire counteracts this influence and keeps the milk from souring. Manifestly the heat should not be too great or too long continued.

To Destroy Tent Caterpillars.
Mr. J. W. G., of Lowell, Mass., writes that he has been successful in destroying the tent caterpillars on his apple trees for the past seventeen years, in the following manner: Take one pint of soft soap to two gallons of water, and after dissolving the soap, make a swab on the end of a pole, which after dipping in the suds insert into the nest of the caterpillars and twist it a few times, when most of them will be removed, and the others all killed, if touched by the suds.

Fertilizers. Geo. G. Davis, of Putney, Vermont, says:—
"I have used Coc's and other brands of phosphates during the last few years, on tobacco and other crops, and have come to the conclusion that Bradley's is the best. This year I have used it on corn, and the piece is earlier and larger than that where none was used. For corn and tobacco I do not hesitate to say that I think Bradley's is the best in the market."

Anecdotes.
"Do you want to kill the child?" exclaimed a gentleman as he saw a Detroit boy tip the baby out of its carriage on the walk.
"No, not quite," replied the boy, "but if I can get him to hawling mother will take care of him while I go and wade in the ditch with Johnny Bracer."
Canny Scot.—"D'ye sell whiskey here, mon?"
Barman.—"Yes."
Canny Scot.—"How much is't a jar?"
Barman.—"Two pounds."
Canny Scot.—(After much consideration) "Well, then, if it's unco gude, aw'll hae two 'pennyworth, hot wi' sugar an' lemon, and a lang pipe."

ASSESSORS' NOTICE!
To the Inhabitants and all other Persons liable to pay Taxes in the Town of Quincy:
The Assessors of the Town of Quincy, hereby give notice to the Inhabitants of said Town, and all other Persons liable to pay Taxes thereon, that they will be at the Office of the Selectmen, every SATURDAY in May, and the first SATURDAY in June from 1 to 5 o'clock, P. M., and from May 24th, until June 5th, every day, Sundays excepted, from 7 1/2 to 9 1/2 A. M., to receive the valuation of Estates; and all persons liable to be taxed in said Town, are hereby required to bring in at said Office, a true and correct schedule of the Real and Personal Estates, for which they are liable to pay Taxes.
Persons holding estates in trust are requested to furnish the Assessors with statements in relation to such estates.
When estates of persons deceased have been divided during the past year, or have changed hands from other causes, the executor or administrator is required to give notice of such change. In default of such notice he will be held responsible for the tax assessed.
Any person bringing in a list of his taxable property will be assessed upon the valuation thereof, and any one neglecting to furnish the Assessors with such list, within the time above specified, will at a legal meeting of the Board of Assessors be assessed according to the laws of the Commonwealth.
All persons will take notice that statements of personal property must be in writing, and in conformity with the list of the Assessors, at their Office, on or before the 5th day of June; and that the personal property of all taxable persons must be estimated; notwithstanding a verbal statement or informal written communication to any one or more of the Assessors.
When a person has failed to bring in a list or schedule of all his taxable property, in conformity to this notice, no abatement of a tax assessed upon such person for such property can be granted, unless such tax exceeds by more than fifty per centum the amount which would have been assessed to that person on his personal estate.

J. P. COTTON & SON,
Manufacturers of Pumps,
Washington Street, near Sea Street, QUINCY.
THE subscribers would respectfully call attention to their WOODEN PUMPS, which have been in use and thoroughly tested for the past thirty years, and given perfect satisfaction. These pumps have withstood all the tests of time, and are acknowledged superior over all others for ease of operation, simplicity, neatness, cheapness, durability, and security from fire. Having been in the Pump Business in Dorchester for thirty years, but now having removed our business to Quincy, we would call attention to our business to Quincy, and would give, as heretofore, complete satisfaction. References given if required.
Lead Pipe furnished and soldered; and all work in our line faithfully and promptly done.
Orders by mail or otherwise, giving depth of well from bottom, will be promptly attended to by addressing
J. P. COTTON & SON, Quincy, Mass.
N. B. We wish to inform the public that our Pumps are not made of Yellow Poplar, called "Gumwood," but of durable timber. This thirty years has tested to the satisfaction of all.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla
Is widely known as one of the most effective remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has stood the test of years, and is sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruption of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities, or diseases that have lurked in the system for years, soon yield to this powerful action, and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures of many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Ulcers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Pastes, Scars, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetters, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulcers of the Throat, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Pits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhoea, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poisons.
It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By tuning the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless languor of the season. Even where no disorder appears, people feel more robust and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of life.

Poetry.
For the Patriot.
Fifty Years of Wedded Life.
BY HILARY HYNGER.
(Written on the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Littlefield, of East Milton, Mass.)
Fifty long years have passed away,
Since we set out together;
Fifty years of joy and sorrow,
Of winter and summer weather.
And the years have fled away so swift,
Past hopes, and fears, and pains,
And we have reached the harvest time,
When we can count our gains.
And first stands the Love that has grown
To a stronger, grander thing,
Than the rapture that filled our hearts
In the early days of Spring.
The Autumn of Love is as sweet
As its Summer's tender bloom;
And its sweet light glides on steps
Through the portals of the tomb.
Next stands the Peace that has risen,
Like a well-spring in our hearts,
That soothes us amid life's storms,
And assures all wonders and smart.
A peace that is richer than joy,
As gold is better than dross,
That sings in the heart like a bird,
Through seasons of gain and loss.
Then come the children of our love,
Who cheered us with their smiles—
Who helped us through the weary days,
With childhood's innocent wiles.
And as these boys and girls grew up,
And passed their ripening years,
Our minds were eased of many cares,
And our hearts of many fears.
For they live in the good old way,
And their conduct ever blesses,
And give them their heart's desire.
Thus standing in the sunset land,
In the mellow Autumn time,
Our hearts are as fond and true,
As when Love was in its prime.
And so hand in hand we'd go,
Till the Golden Age of Love;
To the home of the angels,
Who dwell in light above.

Miscellaneous.
DISENCHANTED.
An autumn sunset blazed about the Beechwood hills, and tinged the rustling
oak-boughs with a ruddier glow, as Philip Vane rode down the long avenue that led from his old country seat out to the village high-road. Standing in the portico,
his mother, a fair, gentle-faced woman,
robed in widow's weeds, looked after him
with an expression of anxious solicitude.
"Are you sure, my dear boy, quite sure that you have chosen wisely?" she said to him as they parted.
"Why, mother, do you ask?" had been his reply. "Rose is all you could desire her to be. She is refined, accomplished and very beautiful."
"I hope my boy will not be disappointed," murmured the mother, as he rode off. "Yet people who ought to know, say that Rose is both a flirt and passionate. Ah, me!"
Meanwhile, Philip cantered quietly away. But, after awhile, he dropped the reins on his horse's neck, and took a dainty little scotch from his waistcoat pocket. It contained an exquisite ring, richly set with pearls and amethyst. It was his engagement-ring; as he turned it over in his fingers, and held it up in the autumn sunset, his handsome eyes grew tender and humid, and his bearded lip trembled like a woman's.
Philip Vane's love-story was very brief.
He was one of those men who are not easily captivated, and so he had remained
heart-whole until the preceding spring.
About the first of May he attended an agricultural show in an adjoining county,
and at a ball there had met Rose Denham,
the prettiest girl in Talbot, and he lost his heart.
Rose Denham was the first woman he had ever loved—and he loved her very blindly, bewildered and bewitched as he was by the rare and exquisite beauty of her face; and in less than a month after their first meeting, they were affianced lovers.
The red fires of sunset had faded, and
the stars were out in thousands in the misty autumn skies, when Philip reached the little country house in which the Denhams lived. There were lights in the windows, and the sound of a piano,
accompanied by a sweet girlish voice, reached his ears. Rose was singing he said, with a good smile, and fastening
his horse, he passed along the gravel walk that led to the door. There he paused an instant, listening to the thrilling voice with all a lover's ardent admiration, and fancying childishly to himself, how pleased and startled Rose would be if she knew he was there; and then and there a silly whim possessed
him to give her a little surprise.
Accordingly, he stole round to the drawing-room window. It was open, for the autumn night was balmy, and he had a full view of the apartment. Rose was at the piano, in her becoming evening dress of sky-blue, with her hair falling in golden showers over her white shoulders. But she was not alone. Hanging over her, and toying with her ringlets,
as he turned the music, was a young man of exceedingly foppish appearance and Rose did not seem in the least annoyed by his excessive familiarity, for while she sang, she would toss her beautiful head, and glance up into his admiring face with an air of witching coquetry.
"I have had twenty thousand prisoners pass through my hands," said
the keeper of Canterbury, England jail,
"since I have been keeper of this jail,
but, though I have inquired, I have not discovered one teetotaler among them."
"One of Brigham Young's wives told him the other day that when she heard that the Sultan of Turkey had seven hundred wives, she felt mortified
to think that her husband had allowed an outlandish foreigner to beat him so badly in that line. There is pride for you."
"Is your name Jones?" inquired a Detroit man, as he pulled the bell at a door. "Does it say Jones on the doorplate?" angrily inquired the man, pointing to his name on the plate. "Do these letters spell 'Jones'?" "I dunno," replied
the stranger. "I'm no judge of spellin',
and I know Jones lives in this ward somewhere."
"My dear," said a fond mamma
to her daughter, "don't be flattered. It is easy for the young men to soft-soap
you when they use concentrated lyre."
"My madam," said a polite traveler to a testy old lady. "If I see proper to love myself to this milk, is there any impropriety in it?" "I don't understand what you mean; but if you mean that there's anything nasty in that milk, I'll give you
to understand you've struck the wrong house. There ain't the first hair in it, for as soon as Dorothy Ann told me
the kitchen was drowned in the milk, I went straight and strained it over."

diamond solitaire, it would have been so much more elegant and stylish."
Her lover's brow clouded.
"I am sorry, dear," he said, gravely.
"I fancied this one would please you;
but you shall have the solitaire."
"Oh, you are so kind! and I am naughty to trouble you so much."
She held up her ripe lips, and he kissed her in silence, and they returned to the cottage; and a little later he was in his saddle again, and on his way back to Beechwood. But an indefinable something weighed down his spirits—a kind of restless dissatisfaction that he could neither banish nor comprehend.
The moment his mother met him on the following morning, she knew how matters stood. She could read her son's heart like an open book.
"This just as I feared," she sighed—
"My poor boy will be disappointed."
But she uttered no word.
A week later, Philip Vane was called to town on business, and he embraced
that opportunity to purchase the diamond ring. He selected a very magnificent one, at an extravagant cost.
Then, instead of returning to Beechwood, he took the train to Talbot, and walked across to the Denham residence.
It was just about noon when he reached
there; and the autumn day was very lovely, with mellow sunlight, and a hazy splendor on the circling hills.
He would have a long walk with Rose,
he thought, his heart swelling with delight as he neared the house. Dear little Rose, he loved her more every moment
he lived, no matter if she was rather vain
and childish.
He found the front door open, and a little housemaid scrubbing the steps—
she entered him, and he entered the small drawing-room and sat down. As he did so, the sound of voices, in loud and angry discussion, reached his ears. Just behind the dining-room was a little parlor, which Mrs. Denham and Rose were in the habit of making their morning sitting-room, and it was from this that the sounds proceeded.
Philip listened in alarm at first, thinking some one was ill, or that something had happened.
"Now, Rose, my dear, do be reasonable, entreated the tremulous voice of Mrs. Denham. "We are willing to do all we can for you; but you know how your father stands. The very roof over our heads is mortgaged already, and pray
how can we raise money to buy such extravagant things?"
"I don't know, nor do I care," cried Rose, with angry vehemence. "Let papa borrow it. I tell you I will have a splendid outfit."
"My dear, you will have three nice silks, and a good many other dresses; and you won't need so many changes when
at Beechwood," interposed the mother.
"What's the reason I won't?" almost screamed Rose. "Do you think I'm going to be shut up at Beechwood all this winter? I'll show you, and I'll show Philip Vane, too, I'm going to have a gay season, if I live; and I want the right kind of an outfit—and I mean to have it. So there's no use talking;
you know I always have my way."
Then there came the sound of grievous sobbing; and a child's voice, the voice
of Rose's little sister, Alice, cried out,
"See, Resie, you have made poor mamma cry." "How can you be so naughty?"
"Hush, this minute, you meddlesome little thing! Who asked you to put in your say? I don't see what you're here for either, gaping at every word that's said, and pulling what few things I've got to pieces. Come, take yourself off to the nursery at once!"
Philip Vane heard the sound of a sharp blow, and the next moment little Alice
ran out, crying ready to break her heart.
He had risen to his feet in utter amazement, and, passing the dining-room door,
the child saw him. She started a moment,
and then cried out, in wicked delight:
"Aha! Miss Rose, here's Mr. Vane in the dining-room, and he's heard how naughty you've been—haven't you, Mr.
Vane?" "How can you be so naughty?"

The Brook.

Little brook, silver, clear, and bright,
Ever thou hastenest from my sight;
I stand on the rock, and to think, I try,
Whence thou comest, and whither fly.
"I come out of the rock's dark bed,
Over flowers and moss my course hasten;
Upon my surface ever soft,
The heavenly blue is pictured off.
Therefore have I, happy child, thought,
On it leads me, whence, I know not!
He who called me from the stone—
He my leader I will own!"

Keeping Fowls in Orchards.

Mr. Editor:—The public has got to learn the full advantage of keeping poultry. Few seem to appreciate the service they may do among the trees in an orchard. Let any one try them in an orchard of a quarter or half an acre, where they may be kept by a picket fence four or five feet high, putting in, say a hundred and twenty-five fowls, and observe the result. He will avoid the annoyance in the garden of such many complain, while they will work among the trees, doing just what is needed, keeping the ground well cultivated, and destroying everything that can injure the fruit trees in the shape of bugs, worms or other insects, and lay a large number of eggs which, you know, are a cash article, to say nothing of the chickens, which pay well for raising at the present time.

I have tried it, and I know it is so. I have about a hundred fowls which have worked admirably among my trees, keeping the ground in good condition, keeping off the insects, and promoting the growth of the orchard. I am satisfied that we have yet to learn the full benefits which may be derived from the proper management of fowls, and it is quite possible that the method of treatment I have suggested may offer the best way of getting our apple orchards into bearing condition again.—Cor. Ploughman.

Hen Manure.

A simple and efficacious plan to utilize hen manure is to gather some peaty soil, dry it thoroughly in the sun, and store it away in a dry place. With this, dust the hen house floor well, two or three times a week, and once a week sweep it out clean, and store in a dry place. You can thus prevent the manure from emitting any offensive smell, keep the hen house perfectly sweet, and have a very valuable manure. Treat the stable in a similar manner, except that it is cleaned out daily, and sufficient is put down to absorb the urine, a very important item, usually not just lost, but allowed to become a nuisance to man and beast.

The Best Fertilizers.

The time is close at hand when the farmers and gardeners are looking about them to see what fertilizer is the best for them to use. We take pleasure in recommending the Superphosphate of Lime manufactured by the Bradley Fertilizer Company, at 24 Broad St., Boston. This is the oldest and most reliable Fertilizer in the market. The Committee on Fertilizers of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association at their exhibition held at Faneuil Hall, Boston, in September, 1874, reported as follows: "Bradley's Fertilizers have maintained their superiority for more than ten years, and the award of a Silver Medal at the last Exhibition was a merited testimonial to their value."

S. Dana Hayes, Ph. D. Robert Wharton, Wm. B. Merrill, Geo. O. Carpenter, John Briggs, Solomon Carter, James F. Babcock.

Farmers can hardly afford to plant without this Fertilizer. It invariably gives crops an early start and a strong and vigorous growth during the season, with highly satisfactory results at harvesting. We believe that no farmer will regret a judicious use of Bradley's Superphosphate of Lime.—Farmers' Patriot.

Mr. J. W. Sturtevant gave a whole lecture in a few words when he said: "A mowing machine is an extravagance for him who is sparing of oil, or does not keep the nuts tight. The scythe is more economical. But when a man has a fit training to manage the mowing machine, it is very great. So when persons adopt an intelligent way of keeping cattle, they will be appreciative of thoroughbred cattle, and they will be profitable to them, when not purchased at too high a price."

Anecdotes.

"Mr. Smithers, how can you sleep? the sun has been up two hours."
"Well, what if it has?" said Smithers.
"He goes to bed at dark, while I'm up till after midnight."

"Why did you pass yesterday without looking at me?" said a beautiful woman to Talleyrand.
"Because, madam, if I had looked I could not have passed."

A countryman in Savannah, observing a gang of negroes laboring on the streets, each wearing a ball and chain asked one why the ball was chained to his leg.
"To keep people from stealing it!"
"Heap of thieves about here!"

"Where did you learn wisdom?" inquired Diogenes of a man esteemed wise.
"From the blind," was the reply.
"Who always try their path with a stick before they venture to tread upon it?"

An old-fashioned naval Captain stood up to go through a country dance with a very fine lady, who was shocked to observe that his huge and warm hands were not covered according to etiquette.
"Captain," said his fair partner, "you are perhaps not aware that you have not got gloves on?"
"Oh, never mind, mad'am," answered the Captain, "never mind, I can wash my hands when we've done."

SATURDAY, JUNE 5, 1875.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

Short communications and items of news earnestly solicited from friends and patrons.

BOSTON FLOWER MISSION. The work of this Mission, which has for its object the sending of Fruit and Flowers to the inmates of the various hospitals in the city, has already begun. Three churches contribute in this town. The Episcopal Orthodox and Unitarian. They are represented by the following ladies, who have consented to act as committee—Miss Annie Alger, Miss E. J. Hewins, Miss Annie L. Reed. Persons willing to receive the flowers and fruit at their homes will please to make it known to either member of the committee. Mr. Bowditch continues to take the contributions to Boston free of charge.

The flowers should be made up in very small bunches, well tied; and the sender should place them, well sprinkled, in tubs. The tubs will be duly returned.

BEREAVEMENT. It is with feelings of sadness, that we to-day record the death of Mr. Jefferson Morrill, depot master at the Centre Station, in this town, who died at his residence on Sea street, on Saturday morning last, after a short but painful attack of rheumatic fever. Mr. Morrill was a general favorite with the citizens of this town, and he was always pleasant and obliging. He was buried on Monday, from the Orthodox church, by St. Paul's Lodge, Knights of Pythias, of which order he was a member. His funeral was largely attended by our citizens, and after the ceremonies his remains were conveyed to Forest Hills for interment.

The Knights turned out quite largely and escorted the remains of their Brother from his residence to the church, and from there to the cemetery, preceded by the Hingham Brass Band. The attention of the Lodge to their Brother during his last sickness, the orderly and careful manner in which they took charge of his remains at the funeral, the solemn and beautiful services at the grave, and for St. Paul's Lodge many encomiums of praise from relatives and friends.

He leaves a wife and daughter to mourn his loss, and they have the sympathy of his numerous friends in their sad bereavement.

PUBLIC LIBRARY. We wish to call particular attention this week to change in the hours during which books can be taken from the Public Library. During the summer weather the Library will be open in the evening on Saturday only; on all other days it will be open from 10 A. M. to 6 P. M. only. On Saturday it will be open both day and evening as heretofore.

AUCTION. One of the best pieces of real estate in Neponset, will be sold at auction, on Monday next, by Joseph W. Lombard, Esq. The land is in a very desirable locality nearly opposite the hotel and it offers a rare opportunity to capitalists or business men.

A SUIT CALLED. The first regatta of the season, by this club, will take place this afternoon at 1 o'clock. It is expected that a large crowd will be present to witness the contest. There is to be a prize for each sale.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE. An undivided parcel of upland and marsh, belonging to the estate of the late John J. Glover, will be sold at auction on Thursday next. See advertisement.

FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT. On Thursday afternoon, about quarter past five, there was a big smash-up at the Quincy Station. A young, spirited horse, owned by Peter Butler, Esq., was standing near the north corner of the depot, (while Mr. Eugene W. Conner and an assistant were loading a hay-rigging), when a passing train frightened him, and he broke loose from his fastening. The horse was immediately seized by Mr. Conner, but being scared he snatched the bridle and got loose; the wagon hit the building and tore off a board, which so frightened Mr. Loring N. Shaw's horse, that he started and ran a foot of a stone post near by breaking both shafts of the vehicle to which he was attached. Mr. Butler's horse still continued on his course and ran into the Messrs. Lapham's summer carriage "Clara," which was passing up to the depot, overturning and smashing it considerably. Fortunately there was but one person in it, a lady, employed by Mr. Bryant N. Adams, who was thrown out, and it was thought at first, quite seriously injured, but we since learn that she received only a few slight bruises.—The horse not satisfied with the mischief he had done, still continued down the yard, and on reaching Hancock street, leaped between two horses passing at the time, and was secured. He had previously left the wagon, containing one hundred rails, in the yard.

ACCIDENT. Mr. Joseph Tucker was knocked down and quite severely injured while moving a building on Washington street on Monday last. He was moving the office formerly occupied by Mr. Owen Adams at Quincy Point, to land in the rear of the Adams Academy Boarding House, near the depot. As he was passing the residence of Mr. William Ditson, the building struck a telegraph pole and broke the same near the ground. It fell upon the driver Mr. Tucker, and knocked him down.—He was taken up and carried into Messrs. Keating & Spear's store, and after recovering in some measure was able to return to his residence.

SILVER WEDDINGS. Mr. N. B. Fernald and wife, celebrate their twenty-fifth anniversary of married life, on Wednesday next. Brother Easterbrook, of the Weymouth Gazette, and wife, will celebrate their twenty-fifth anniversary on Monday.

UNITARIAN CHURCH. We understand that the repairs of this church will be begun next week, under the direction of Mr. Wm. P. Longfellow, architect.

Decoration Day.

Memorial day was celebrated on Saturday last in this town, in a very pleasing and appropriate manner. The day was pleasant and cool, although very dusty. Paul Revere Post were early astir with music and flowers, ready to perform their mission of love. In the different cemeteries in this town there were two hundred and twenty-five graves decorated and not one was neglected. The floral display was quite good notwithstanding the backwardness of the season, and these tributes were judiciously used. The Soldiers' monument was beautifully trimmed with garlands of sweet spring flowers.

In the forenoon, a detail proceeded to the National Soldiers' Home and the resting place of the noble braves from that institution, were strewn with floral tributes. The Post, preceded by the Belknap Brass Band, then marched to the cemeteries in the south and west part of the town, where they performed the simple yet impressive ceremony of placing testimonials of affection over the graves, while they bent the knee and raised their cap in token of respect for their loved comrades.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the Post was again formed in line, preceded by the Belknap Brass Band and marched direct to the Mount Wollaston Cemetery, where they were met by the disabled Soldiers, Orator, Town Officers, invited guests and citizens generally.

Monument of the Post was arranged on either side of the shaft, and divine blessing was offered by the Rev. Samuel Kelley, followed by appropriate remarks by the Commander, William Emerson, and his aids; then followed the decoration with beautiful wreaths and bouquets.—The line was again formed and proceeded to the Town Hall, where the oration was delivered.

After the assembly had been provided with seats, the audience was called to order by the Commander, who invited their attention to a song by a quartette club, under the direction of Mr. Benis of Wollaston Heights. The club was composed of the following excellent singers—Miss Emma Howe, of South Boston, Soprano; Mrs. Braden, Alto; Mr. Lynton, Tenor; and W. W. Bemis, Bass; the three last named residing at Wollaston Heights. Father Kelley then offered prayer, which was followed by an appropriate song. The Commander then introduced the orator of the day, Rev. Edward Norton, who delivered a very fine address, which we were in hopes to be able to give our readers, but have been disappointed. At the close of Mr. Norton's remarks the Club favored the audience with another song, and then the Band closed the ceremonies in the hall by some very fine music.

This ended the ceremonies of the day much to the credit of the Post and all who took part in the exercises.

GRAND BENEFIT CONCERT. The Hyers Sisters and their talented troupe, from California, who favored our citizens with some of their delightful music a short time since, have had tendered them by their music-loving admirers, a grand benefit concert, to come off at the Town Hall on Monday evening next. Every seat will be sure to listen to them again, and to those who have not, we can assure them of an agreeable surprise. There is every reason to anticipate one of the richest musical entertainments of the season. Tickets to be had of John O. Holden and E. B. Souther, and should be secured early.

FIRE AND ACCIDENT. Last Saturday afternoon, an alarm of fire was given, caused by some mischievous scamps, setting fire to a small quantity of wood-lard, belonging to Mr. Paul Wild, lying between Quincy Avenue and his estate on Washington street, which was fortunately extinguished without doing any great amount of damage.

On the return of the engines from the fire, a young fellow named John R. Wren, better known as Jacko, was knocked down and the horse carriage belonging to the Niagara Company passed over one of his arms, crushing and mangleing it in a fearful manner. He was carried to the Hospital on Sunday, and all will be done that is possible to save the injured limb, but it seems at present to be a very doubtful case.

FESTIVAL. The ladies, connected with the Universalist Society of this town, are busily engaged in making articles and arranging for their fair and straw-berries festival, to be held on the 22d, 23d and 24th of this month. The general indication is that an unusually large number of useful articles will be offered for sale, and pleasant and social gatherings will be held each evening.

ASSESSORS' NOTICE. All persons, liable to pay taxes in this town, are reminded that this afternoon is the last time the board meets to receive schedules of taxable property. All who fail to hand in a list cannot receive an abatement, unless the tax assessed exceeds by more than fifty per cent., the amount assessed on their personal estate.

SOVEREIGNS OF INDUSTRY. It will be seen by a notice in to-day's paper, that the members of Council No. 53 of this town, are requested to be present at their meeting, on Tuesday next, as business in which all feel interested will be brought before this meeting.

WHAT A LOT. Mr. Joshua H. Spear, an extensive florist and horticulturist in this place, informs us it takes nine thousand cabbage seeds to weigh one ounce. If he were not a very reliable man, one would be tempted to doubt the statement.

Between the months of May and October, last year, 16,889 Russian convicts were banished to Siberia, and 2,349 women and children accompanied the exiles.

On the plains of Texas is found a little flower called the "compass flower," in all its changes of wind and weather, its points its leaves invariably to the north.

The shoe business at South Weymouth is at a stand still.

Revolutionary Relics.

The Ladies Centennial Commission of Boston, propose holding an exhibition of Revolutionary Relics, at 56 Beacon St., Boston, which will open June 14th, and continue one week. On Thursday, the 17th, a very pleasing entertainment will be given. Ladies in Revolutionary costumes will preside in the parlors, while the old-fashioned kitchen will be well represented, and refreshments can be obtained. It will be a pleasant place, for those who intend going to the city that day, to visit and view the ancient relics that will be on exhibition.

Mrs. Charles Francis Adams and Mrs. George T. Bigelow are the committee, for this town, who will give any information desired. Portraits of distinguished patriots or loyalists, arms, furniture, clothing, china, silver or glass ware or ornaments will be gratefully received. Autograph letters or documents of the period are also desired. From the number of such objects known to exist it is believed that the exhibition can be made both attractive and instructive, and, as it is the first of the kind in Boston, it should be of such a character as to assume historic importance.

Glass cases will be provided, securely fastened, and the whole collection will be under the constant supervision of the committee, with special and trusty custodians, both day and night. The house will be open in the day time only, and neither gas or fire will be allowed on the premises. Persons disposed to aid the project of the committee will please notify Dr. Green, Massachusetts Historical Society, 30 Tremont street, or any of the committee, or to the centennial rooms, State House. Such notice should be given promptly, as it is important to complete the arrangements before the day of opening. The fire-proof vaults of Messrs. Bigelow, Kennard & Co. are at the disposal of the committee for the reception and disposal of such valuable objects as may be immediately tendered or need subsequent care.

THE PRESS EXCURSION. The arrangements are now perfected for the summer excursion of the Massachusetts Press Association, and the route selected combines a degree of comfort and attractiveness rivaling any of the former trips of the fraternity. The time for starting is June 23d, the celebration of the 17th century a little delay; the programme includes the delightful sail over Cayuga and Seneca Lakes, New York, a visit to Cornell University, one day and two nights at Watkins Glen, not very well known in this region, but presenting some of the most romantic scenery in America, and concluding with Niagara Falls, the trip occupying a whole week.

District Court of East Norfolk. The case of George L. Odium, of Squantum, continued from May 20, for having in his possession ninety-six snells was disposed of by discharging the defendant.

Michael Scott, of Holbrook, for being drunk at Randolph, was complained of by William H. Warren, Jr. Fined $3 and costs.

Joseph Roberts, of Quincy, on complaint of Deputy Sheriff W. M. French, for having a pistol concealed on his person. He was held for trial before the Superior Court at Dedham.

James Cane, of Weymouth, and also James Sweeney, of said town, on complaint of Constable A. J. Garey, for a mutual assault. Each fined $10 and costs.

John Ford, of Quincy, on complaint of Sheriff French, for selling liquor without a license. Plead not guilty. Case continued to June 1st, at which time he was fined $30 and costs.

Peter Welch, of Quincy, was complained of for selling intoxicating liquors without a license. Plead not guilty and was discharged.

Michael Corr and Owen Corr, of Weymouth, for disturbing the peace at said Weymouth, were each fined $10 and half the costs.

A follower of Ignatz Walton, while fishing in the Shetucket, Conn., one day last week, got harnessed to a big fish. By a powerful effort he got a portion of it out of the water, and saw just enough to make him think he had caught a hippopotamus. Subsequently it appeared that he had caught an old dead horse that must have come down stream in a freshet.

Braintree.

Decoration Day was observed with the usual ceremonies. Post 87, G. A. R., visited the different cemeteries and laid their floral tokens of remembrance upon the graves of their fallen comrades. The Braintree Brass Band furnished the music. The collection at Grand Army Hall, was duly appreciated. The memorial service at the Town Hall, commenced at 2 o'clock, p. m., as follows:—Voluntary, "Let the dead and the beautiful rest," by Rev. Mr. Loomis; Singing by the entire audience, accompanied by the band; Prayer by Rev. Mr. Loomis; Singing (America) by the audience, accompanied by the band; Oration by E. C. Bumpus, Esq.; Doxology by the band and audience; Benediction by Rev. Mr. Barrett.

The oration was excellent, and was listened to with deep interest. The band discoursed very fine music, although marching after A King, and playing under A Bond.

The Post Office at the South part of the town was moved into the new store on Tuesday, June 1st. Mr. Elias Hayward, proprietor of the apothecary store and post-master, is glad to welcome his friends at his new quarters.

French & Porter (Braintree Clothing Store), have also moved into the same building, and with their fine stock of goods and new and better accommodations, are ready to wait upon customers, old and new. Mr. Isaac Porter has taken the third store in the building, and is already prepared to furnish customers with all goods belonging to a first-class provision store. French & Porter can provide for the wants of the outer man; medicines for the sick can be found at Hayward's; and, last but not least, Porter will provide for the wants of the inner man, he never so hungry.

The building is situated on the corner of Washington and Holbrook streets, and is owned by Holbrook, Hobart & Porter. It is a substantial two-story French roof building;—the first floor comprises the three stores; the second, a tenement and a number of office rooms; the third to be finished for a hall. Mr. W. R. Pennington is the master builder, and although only six weeks have passed since it was commenced, it is now nearly completed. The Braintree Brass Band are to give a series of open air concerts.

BOLD OUTRAGE. Last Thursday afternoon, the barn of John L. Eldridge, on Quincy Avenue, was set on fire by a fellow, who just previous to setting the fire, attempted to take a carriage from the lawn in front of the house, containing a baby, from a child. The fellow commanded the girl to give up the carriage, or he should take it by force. She refused, and he proceeded to her father's house for help. The man was seen to run into the barn, and then he started off. Soon after, the barn was discovered to be on fire, but by the assistance of the neighbors the fire was extinguished with little damage. The fellow was pursued but escaped by taking to the woods.

SATURDAY, JUNE 26, 1875.

"Born to be Master, or no Sect are We."

Short communications and items of news earnestly solicited from friends and patrons.

Anonymous communications are not published.

PUBLIC LIBRARY. This institution is now closed at 6 o'clock p.m., the reason given for not keeping open in the evening being that it costs fifteen cents for gas for every book taken out. We have set an arithmetic at work to ascertain how much the expense would be for gas between the hours of 6 and 7 p.m. Seriously, many persons are unable to procure books until after the first mentioned hour, and it might not be amiss to recognize their claims.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION. The annual graduation of the Quincy High School, Mr. H. A. Keith principal, takes place on Friday evening, July 10th, at Town Hall. The usual exercises of such an occasion will be varied by a musical entertainment given by Mrs. Keith, wife of the efficient principal. The following names comprise the graduating class: William T. Carter, Mary A. Duggan, Florence E. Brooks, Suzanne A. Arnold, Amy F. Newcomb, Lizzie J. McNeil, Etta F. Nightingale, Mary M. Devlin, Anna F. Sargent and H. A. Keith.

RECHERCHE AFFAIR. Oliver Wendell Holmes will read his memorial poem of the battle of Bunker Hill in a tent erected by Hon. Charles Francis Adams adjoining his residence, on Tuesday afternoon, June 29, at 4 o'clock p.m., the proceeds to be devoted to the ladies' centennial fund. This will be an occasion demanding the cordial co-operation of our citizens and all to make as successful as it is unique and patriotic. Dr. Holmes is always an entertaining speaker, but he will be found doubly so when reciting his vigorous war lyric, told in the homely language of the old grandmother, who follows so many happy precedents by turning it into a love story, as witness the closing lines telling of the time succeeding the resuscitation of the wounded soldier:

"And we sometimes walked together in the pleasant summer weather.
"Please to tell us what his name was,"—Just your own, my little dear.
There's his picture painted: we became so well acquainted,
That—in short, that's why I'm grandma, and you children all are here."

Among a number of well-known citizens of the town who are to act as stewards, are Edward Whitcher, Josiah B. Stetson, Henry H. Hunt, Charles H. Porter, John O. Holden, John Randall, and others.

QUINCY YACHT CLUB. The second regatta under the auspices of the Quincy Yacht Club takes place on Monday, July 5. The start will be made from the Judges' boat, to be moored off the Willow House, Quincy Bay. There will be ample room for all spectators who wish to attend, and the yachts can be seen and distinguished with a glass throughout the whole length of the course.

RECOVERED. Dr. Joseph Underwood, we are glad to say, has quite recovered from his recent sickness, and his patients will be only too glad to see his smiling countenance at their homes again.

DIVIDEND. The Granite Railroad Company have declared a dividend of four dollars per share, payable July 1.

FAIR. The Catholic Fair closed on Tuesday night. Owing to the crowded state of our columns, we are compelled to omit the list of articles drawn until our next issue, when we will publish the list, and the names of those who drew the articles.

AUCTION. Joseph W. Lombard will have an auction this afternoon, opposite the Central House.

CHANGES. By referring to the advertisement of the Old Colony railroad it will be seen that there have been several changes in the time table.

THE coming Fourth of July will pass almost unnoticed in Quincy, and so our holiday excitements are about over, excepting as we may draw it mildly in Boston a week from Monday. It is to be hoped that the subsequent Fourth of July may be appropriately observed by our old and historical town, as probably few will visit Philadelphia, and that affair will probably quite overshadow even Boston. It would not be a bad idea to have an intellectual celebration, with more of a flash of wit than of powder, and rumbling of words than of artillery. It would be an excellent idea to have the towns of Quincy and Braintree unite in such an affair, and be one again for the nonce as "we old time."

PICNIC. The Universalist Sunday School and Society, in connection with the Universalists of South Boston, will hold their annual picnic at Silver Lake, Tuesday, June 29th. They will be accompanied by Edmunds's Band, and, judging by the past, the occasion will be an eminently social and pleasant one. The train will leave Quincy at about 8.30 a.m. and return from the Lake at 6.30 p.m. Tickets: All over 15 years of age, 75 cents; under 15, 40 cents. On and after Monday, tickets can be procured at the stores of Messrs. Eben Bent, J. N. Blake, Henry Chubbuck, George Crane, and at the depot Tuesday morning of Mr. Wyman E. Abercombrie.

DECEASED. Charles Beals, one of the oldest engineers on the Old Colony railroad, died in Plymouth, on Wednesday of last week. His funeral took place on Sunday, and a special train was run to and from Plymouth for the occasion.

ADJUDGED. The Supreme Court, which was to have sat in Dedham on Monday, for the assignment of a day for the trial of Lizzie Miller, for the murder of her infant, in this town last winter, has adjourned to Monday next.

Floral Services.

Children's Sunday was appropriately observed in the Universalist Church last Sunday. The floral decorations were both numerous and elaborate, the choir, gallery being festooned with wiggles and other flowers, while bouquets, crosses, crowns and hanging baskets were plentifully distributed through the house. The display around the pulpit was the most profuse. There we saw green and white wrought into forms symbolic of Christian truths, and are they not truths too deep for vocal utterance? The day was pleasant, and a large congregation was in attendance. After the voluntary, the pastor read fitting selections from the Scriptures, when followed the hymn, "O Son of God! thy children we." Then succeeded the prayer, and the hymn, "God of mercy, hear our prayer." Next came the address of the pastor, based upon the words, "Lo! children are a heritage of the Lord." Mr. Whitney briefly showed that the sentiment of the text is met with in the better phases of ancient Pagan belief, though there associated with many dark and cruel superstitions, and that it is more amply and consistently set forth in the scriptures of the Old Testament. Still, though the "elder scriptures" freely recognize the "inherent beauty of childhood," and God's paternal care for His ever-growing army, they do not entirely satisfy the "faints of the young. And it was shown why they do not. Then the speaker, turning to the New Testament, quoted some of the choice utterances of the Saviour respecting childhood, thus opening a highway of hope and love, whose joy and peace must ever be near the heart of childhood. After a few additional words in defence of the custom of dedicating children to the service of holiness, the speaker descended from the pulpit and consecrated five little ones by baptism. Following the prayer of consecration, the choir very sweetly and impressively sang the anthem, "Thou art my portion, saith my soul," after which the exercises were concluded with the benediction.

In the evening the house was opened for a Floral Concert by the Sunday School, and was packed in every part. In addition to the decorations of the afternoon were some choice potted plants, also a large floral arch. The exercises were conducted by the superintendent, Mr. John O. Hall, with signal ability and success. After the preliminary exercises, he spoke briefly yet feelingly of the power and beauty of life centered in Christian love, his remarks awakening a response in many hearts. The topic of the evening,—"The Christian Character," was illustrated by the arch, which bore the names of the Christian graces. These, screened at first from the view of the audience, were severally revealed after recitation descriptive of their quality, until at last the entire arch, full of holy names, stood revealed, an emblem of the perfect Christian character. Interspersed with the speaking was singing by the school, with a chorus by several young ladies, the last song being, "Better Days are Coming."

Base Ball.
An interesting game of ball was played at Atlantic, Saturday, between the Atlantic and Lightfoots of Neponset, an amateur club.

The game resulted in a victory for the Atlantic, who both outbatted and outfielded their opponents.

Consecration of Christ Church.

All debts having been paid, the Church was opened for the service of consecration, at 10.30 o'clock on Monday last, at which time the procession of clergy, headed by the Bishop, in whose arms leaned the Right Rev. B. B. Smith, D.D., L.L.D., presiding Bishop of the United States, immediately followed by the Rev. Stephen H. Tyng of New York and Rev. Henry Burrows, of Christ Church, Boston, followed by over thirty in surplices, besides several who did not robe, among whom were Rev. Hutchins, of Medford, Rev. Huntington, of Malden, Rev. Brown, of Jamaica Plain, Rev. Leior, of Taunton.

While passing up the aisle the Bishop and clergy read alternately the 24th Psalm. The instrument of decoration by which the Church is set apart from all unhallowed uses was then read by William L. Wainwright, Esq., Senior Warden; after the exhortation and prayers, the instrument of consecration was read by the Rev. Henry Burrows, a former rector of this Church. Mr. Burrows then read the 14th Psalm, "The Lord is my strength and my shield," which a very interesting sermon was preached by Dr. Tyng, from Job, xiv, 7-9 verses. "For there is hope of a tree, if it be cut down, that it will sprout again, and that the tender branch thereof will not cease."

Though the root thereof was old in the earth, and the stock thereof die in the ground. Yet through the scent of water it will bud, and bring forth boughs like a plant." The preacher said that he chose this text, as one peculiarly adapted to the occasion, as it brought to his mind the time when the Church in the Eastern States was so near dead. He then feelingly referred to the different bishops of whom he had known in his day, referred to the time when the number of bishops in the whole country were but nine, while now they number over sixty. In Massachusetts alone, the number of churches is over one hundred, and of clergy one hundred and fifty. He then referred to the time of forty years ago when he came here, and established the first Sabbath School ever organized in this town, which has continued ever since. He very feelingly referred to the first one who took his hand in this place, to become a member of the Sabbath School, who was none other than the late James Pratt, D.D., whom so many of us remember as being always engaged in the good work, to which he had given himself.

He congratulated the Bishop on the success of his undertakings in this most enlightened diocese in the country, also, Mr. Howe in the finishing of his toil in this society.

The Holy Communion was then celebrated by Bishop Paddock, assisted by Bishop Smith.

After the services the clergy and invited guests partook of collation at the Rectory, at which time speeches were made by both Bishops, and several of the clergy.

The Church was very tastefully decorated with flowers, by Mr. H. H. Hunt, assisted by the ladies. In fact, the whole was one grand success, which reflects much credit on Rev. Mr. Tyng, and the skillful manner in which it was planned and executed. H. E. G.

COSTLEY. James H. Costley, who paid the penalty of forfeiture of life yesterday, has had a career marked by other suspicions of crime than the one for which he was executed yesterday, and the general opinion seems to be that this murder was committed to prevent evidence or talk of a previous one coming to light.

The murder of Julia Hawkes took place on the 13th of May, 1874, probably somewhere on the highway between Quincy and Weymouth, and the body was thrown into the Monaquig River, which forms the dividing line between Braintree and Weymouth, where it lay till the 24th, when it was discovered and Costley was arrested on the 26th, a good share of the credit for fixing the crime upon him being due to N. B. Farnold of Quincy, then a State Constable.

The trial of Costley began on the 28th of December, and lasted six days, resulting in a verdict of guilty. Exceptions were taken, which were argued on the 16th of February, and overruled, when he was sentenced to hang.

The murder was vindictive and cruel in the extreme, yet we have these unfinished tragedies on the legal calendar much more atrocious and revolting—those of Pomeroy, Piper and Pemberton—and it remains to be seen whether all will meet the same end.

Costley was about 34 years of age, and was born in Halifax, Nova Scotia. His ancestors were Long Island Tories, who fled from the country to escape the indignation of the Revolutionary patriots. So the affair at Dedham yesterday may be called one of our numerous centennial celebrations.

THE LAST SCENE. Costley has met his fate. He was led out of his cell in the Dedham jail at 9.34 yesterday morning, attended by Rev. Mr. Mudge of Dedham and Rev. Mr. Brooks of Haverhill. Prayer was offered by the latter, when Sheriff Thomas read the warrant, and asked the prisoner if he had anything to say, with the arose, thanked the officers for their treatment of him, and said he had left in writing all he had to say.

Preparations were then made for the closing scene, and at 10.15 the spring was touched, when he fell, and was suffered to hang 25 minutes, when he was examined by Drs. Deering of Braintree and Tinkham of Weymouth, who pronounced him dead.

LECTURE. It will be seen by an advertisement in another column, that a lecture on temperance will be delivered in the Universalist church to-morrow evening by Mrs. Dr. Lawrence. The following interesting biographical sketch we think will be read with pleasure by her friends in this, her native town.

"Mrs. Lawrence was born in Quincy, Mass., on the 23d of June in 1834. She is the daughter of an industrious and respectable shipbuilder. She received an education at the young ladies' seminary at Marlborough, and at an early age she manifested a remarkable interest in religion, and united with the Baptist Church. For years she played the organ, taught a class in the Sabbath School, and sang in the choir. She was a devoted and zealous member of the church, and a long time she refused to sing or play anything but sacred songs and music, to read anything but religious books and papers, and her whole time in tears and prayer for her unconverted friends. She was often at the bedside of the sick giving words of faith and good cheer to the dying."

Such extreme piety it was perhaps in part which soon caused her health to fail. Having inherited consumption, her recovery was regarded as impossible. After a long and painful illness, she died on the 23d of June, 1875, at the age of 41 years. She was a devoted and zealous member of the church, and a long time she refused to sing or play anything but sacred songs and music, to read anything but religious books and papers, and her whole time in tears and prayer for her unconverted friends. She was often at the bedside of the sick giving words of faith and good cheer to the dying."

Her public career as a lecturer began soon after giving lectures in the ladies on health, hygiene and physiology, including the maternal relations. These themes lead directly to the inheritance and transmitted appetites and the causes of crime, insanity, poverty, disease and drunkenness, all of which are involved in the questions of temperance and sanitary science.

Naturally sensitive, and shrinking from public notice, she felt it a duty to come prominently before the people as a writer or speaker, until, painfully conscious of the surface work which formerly characterized too much of the women's movement, she felt impelled to attack the drink traffic along the line, from the halls of Congress to the White House and the leading hotels, down to the lowest and vilest drinking dens, but shops and dance houses. Her method is to direct attention to the underlying causes which develop the diseased appetite for alcohol, and to show the way to eradicate the great evil from our midst.

Her intuitions are most intensely acute, her power of language is remarkable, her eloquence natural and proverbial, while her distinct enunciation has been cited as a pattern and study for students who aspire to excel in public speaking.

Her voice is really wonderful; she will speak for an hour in the open air every night in the week, without receiving the least injury. Her deep earnestness is peculiarly characteristic, and she is at times sufficient to disarm ridicule and turn the shafts of criticism even with those who may be inclined to regard her positions as untenable. Some of the reports of numerous meetings in New York may be cited as illustrations.

Without being handsome in person she is always attractive. Her eyes ever beam with a calm enthusiasm that transcends mere beauty. A brunette in complexion, of medium height, rather small in figure, decidedly youthful in appearance, a fine form and expressive features with a well-balanced brain, indicating a vigorous intellect and a superabundance of modesty and self-control, which she may safely be regarded as a fair type of "the coming woman."

She is most extremely neat and tasteful in her dress and personal appearance, while at the same time she totally ignores the fashion of the day. She never was a beauty, and she never desired to be, and she is the mother of one child, a boy of more than seven summers, possessed of good health and habits, who has never taken any form of medicine, drug or drink excepting natural beverages. In him a mother's fondest hopes are centered, with a constant prayer that by the favor of heaven he may be able to bless and benefit mankind. Her love for and interest in little children is most intense, and she desires to love them all as her own is the mainspring which provokes the motive power of her self-sacrificing labors for years past in the cause of temperance and of every other reform that looks to the welfare and happiness of mankind."

THE SCHOOLS AND "THE HEATED TERM." Have any of us, while waiting under the heat of the past few days, pitied the school-children? Have we thought that our schools are continued rather too far into "the heated term"? Here are our examinations all to take place from July 7 to July 15, embracing the very hottest days of the summer. Leaving out of account day after day in the sweltering school-room, and the little children who so illy brook confinement, may be worth while to think a moment of examination day at graduation in the High School. These occasions, with the young ladies participating, are provocative of sufficient anxiety and feverishness without infringing on dog-days to aggravate them. We hope the School Committee will look into this matter another season, and order it differently.

WORKINGMEN'S TRAIN. The Old Colony, always alive to the interest of its patrons, has this week begun running a workingmen's train over the Shawmut branch. The stations included are Mattapan (the terminus), Milton Road, Cedar Grove, Ashmont, Centre street, Melville, Field's Corner, Harrison Square, Savin Hill and Crescent Avenue. The train leaves Mattapan at 5.45 on week days, and arrives in Boston at 6.30. Returning the train leaves the depot in Boston at 6.30 p.m., and arrives at Mattapan at 7.30 p.m. The fare is 10 cents, and is present fixed, is about seven cents a trip. The move is a good one, and an indication of a proper spirit on the part of the management of the road, as the enterprise can hardly pay them at present.

APPLETON'S JOURNAL OF JUNE 26 has an interesting sketch and illustration of "The Ship," the old meeting-house in Hingham which was built in 1681, and is now consequently nearly two hundred years old, and the oldest church edifice in the Union that is not in ruins.
